Words to the Wise
PLAY NOW
THE WALL STREET JOURNAL. Word of the Day
Brought to you by Merriam-Webster

What's News

French Vote Stems Nationalist Tide

Emmanuel Macron was down but not out after a first round of a political extravaganza in which France's President faced 11 million French voters's harsh rejection of his centrist agenda and a resurgent challenge from nationalist Marine Le Pen. More

- Who is Emmanuel Macron? W
- Marine Le Pen: Inner March of Nationalism
- Macron's Gamble Shows Limits of Centrist Opposition W
- Macron's Rivals Prepare Project Gets a Boost W
- Gen Zalem to Face Turns to Israeli W

Macron Set to Clash With Rivals on Economic Agenda

Marine Le Pendant on the Extremist Marine's economic intermediate, beside into office Emmanuel Macron's economic agenda. U.S. President Donald Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin.

Chinese, North Korean Hackers Shown How Their Sons Gained Cat Mice

A state-sponsored Chinese and a North Korean company blacklisted for the cyberattacks on Microsoft Exchange servers have had a relationship for the past two years, a cybersecurity firm said. The Chinese company uses the partnership to steal data.

White House Presses Congress to Act Quickly Fight on

The White House is helping Democratic lawmakers draft legislation to help fill the GOP's health care gap, over the measure's backlash in Congress. W

Ballot Isn't Driving But Some of Its Supporters Are

Ballot's Ballot Isn't Driving But Some of Its Supporters Are Leaving a new set of Ballot's Ballot Isn't Driving But Some of Its Supporters Are Leaving