

ON AIR NOW
WHYY

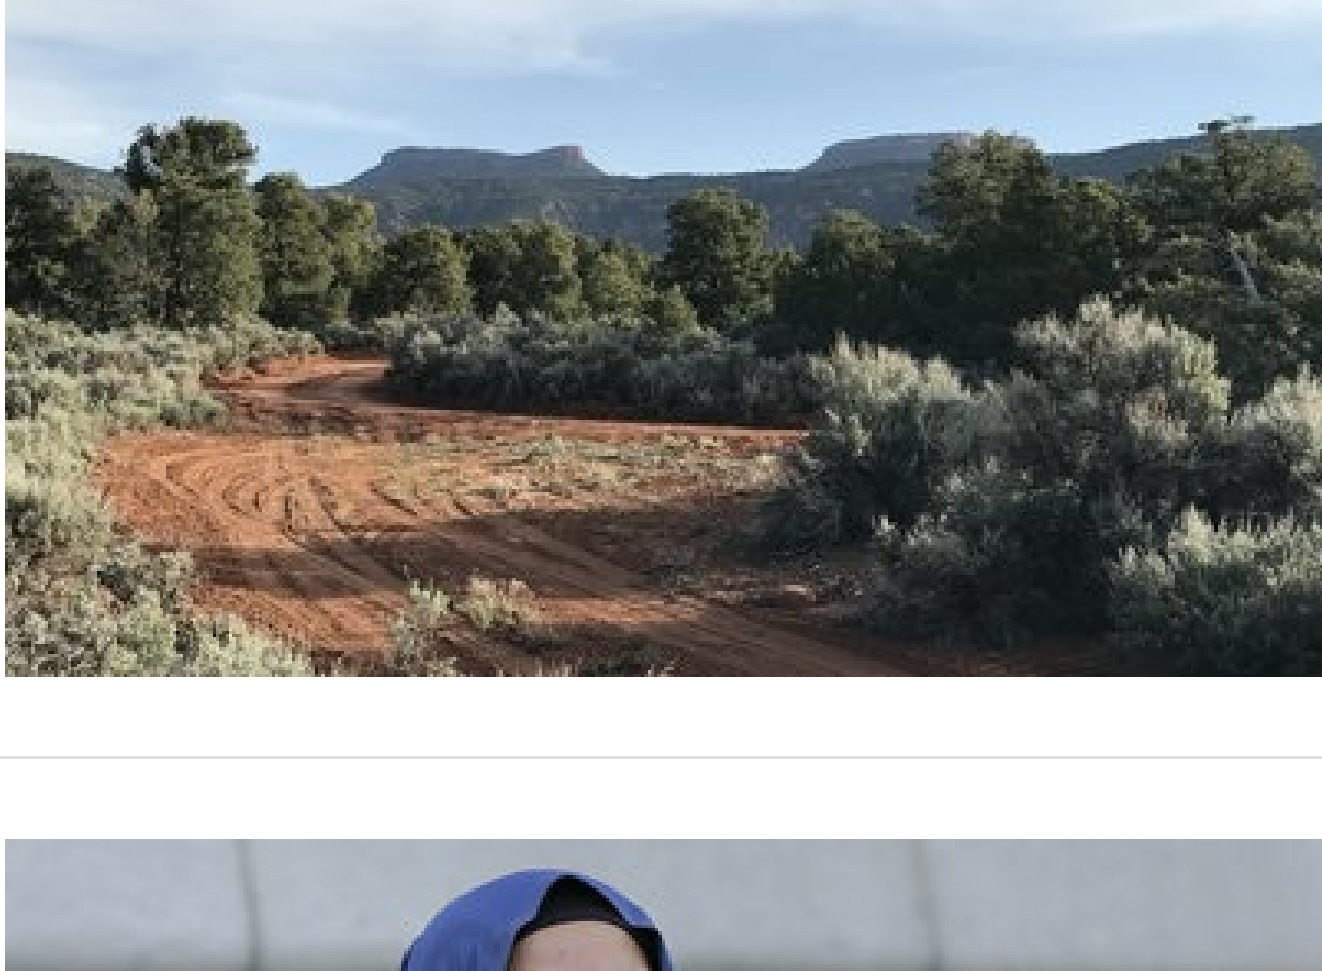

POLITICS

Trump To Sign Executive Order That Could Shrink National Monuments

The Interior Secretary says, under the policy, his department will review protective designations since 1996 of 100,000 acres or more, particularly their size.

Listen · 2:58

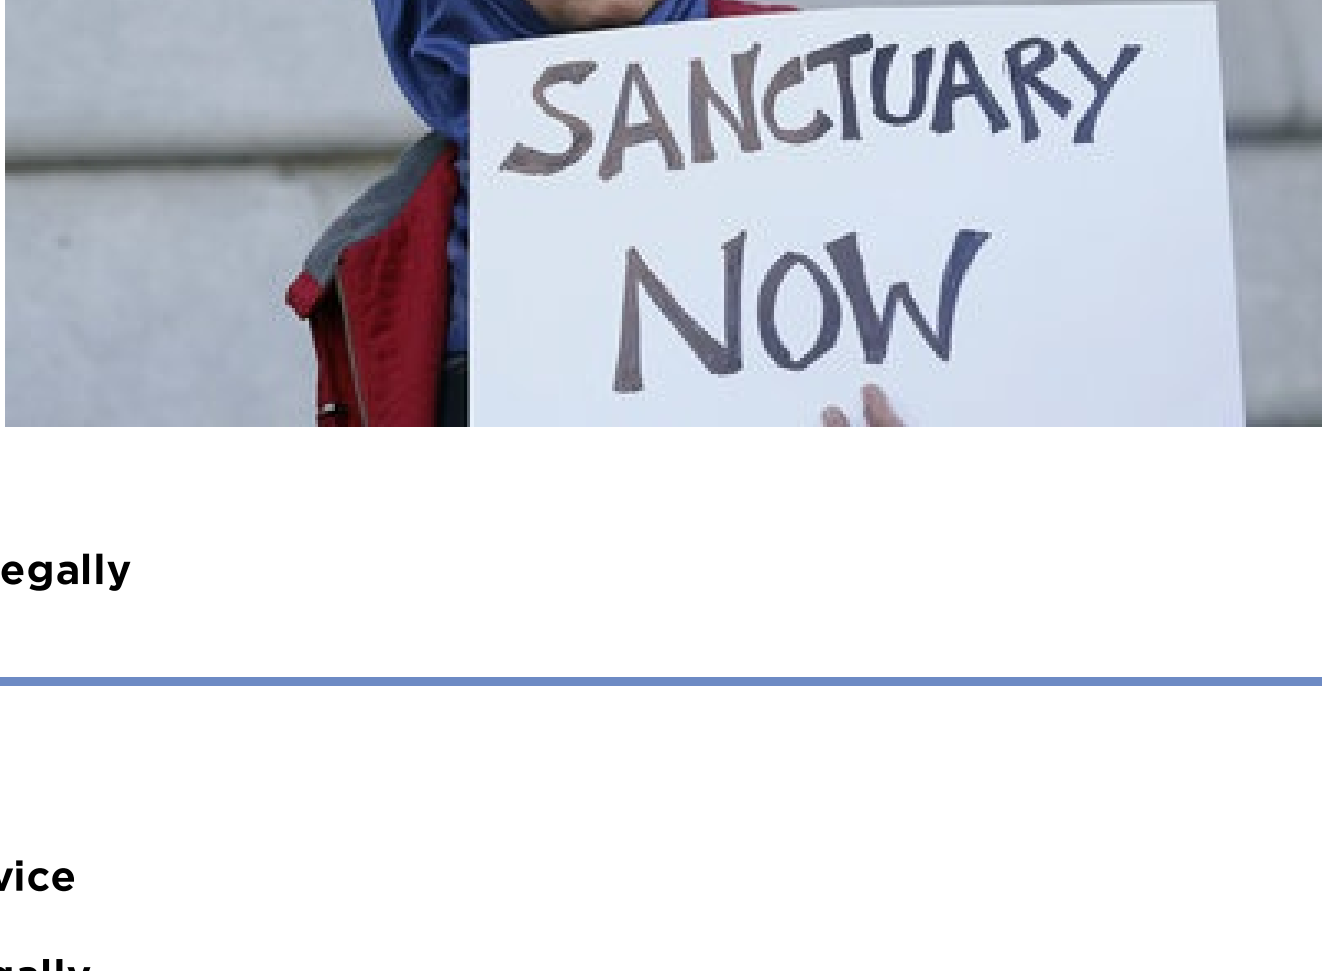

Queue

THE TWO-WAY - NEWS BLOG

Federal Court In San Francisco Blocks Trump's Threat Against Sanctuary Cities

The president's immigration policies have been dealt another setback as the ruling stops the administration from penalizing sanctuary cities while a lawsuit winds through the courts.

Mexicans No Longer Make Up Majority Of Immigrants In U.S. Illegally

LATEST FROM NPR NEWS

Trump Names Retired Marine Corps General To Lead Secret Service

Mexicans No Longer Make Up Majority Of Immigrants In U.S. Illegally

Confirmed: Mountain Lion Took Pescadero, Calif., Dog While Owner Slept

Wearing A Hijab, A Young Muslim Boxer Enters The Ring

New TV Shows And Movies? They'll Stay In The Writer's Mind If There's A Strike

MORE NEWS >

LATEST NEWSCAST

Listen · 5:00

CONNECT WITH NPR

Podcast Directory

Email Newsletters

NPR on Facebook

@npr on Twitter

POLITICS

Donald Trump: Great For Ratings, But What About Governing?

With limited accomplishments chalked up, as he approaches 100 days in office, the president still seems to be stuck on one thing: how many people are tuning in.

Almost 100 Days In, 'Trumpism' Is Still Not Clearly Defined

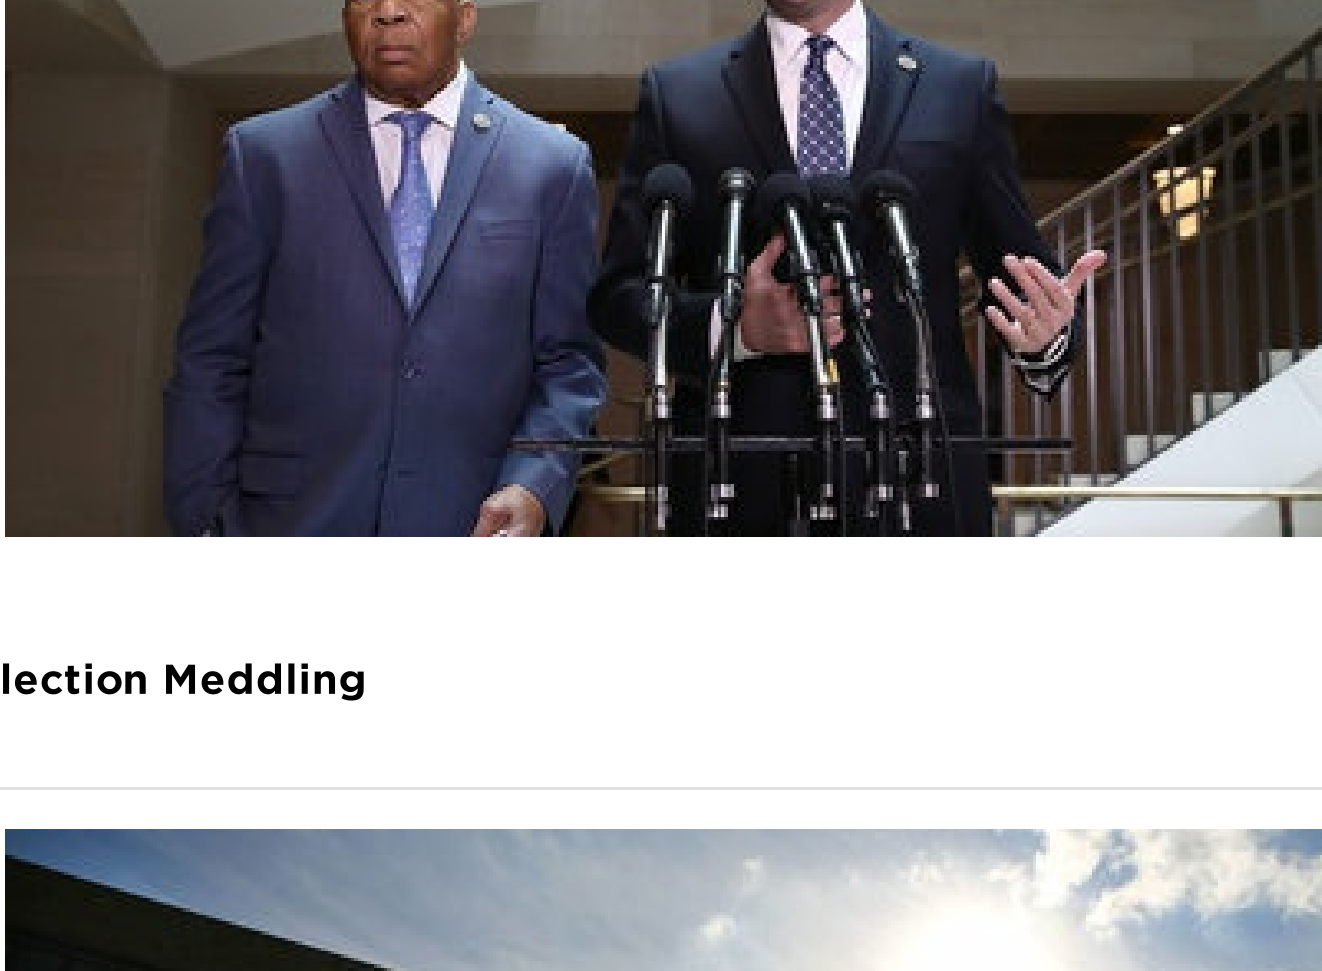

In Trump's First 100 Days, A Resistance Network Digs In

Trump's 100-Day Plan, Annotated: Where His Promises Stand

THE TWO-WAY - NEWS BLOG

Lawmakers Say It Appears Michael Flynn Acted Illegally In Taking Russian Payments

The heads of the House Oversight Committee described "troubling" classified documents about former national security adviser Michael Flynn, and said the White House is refusing to release some data.

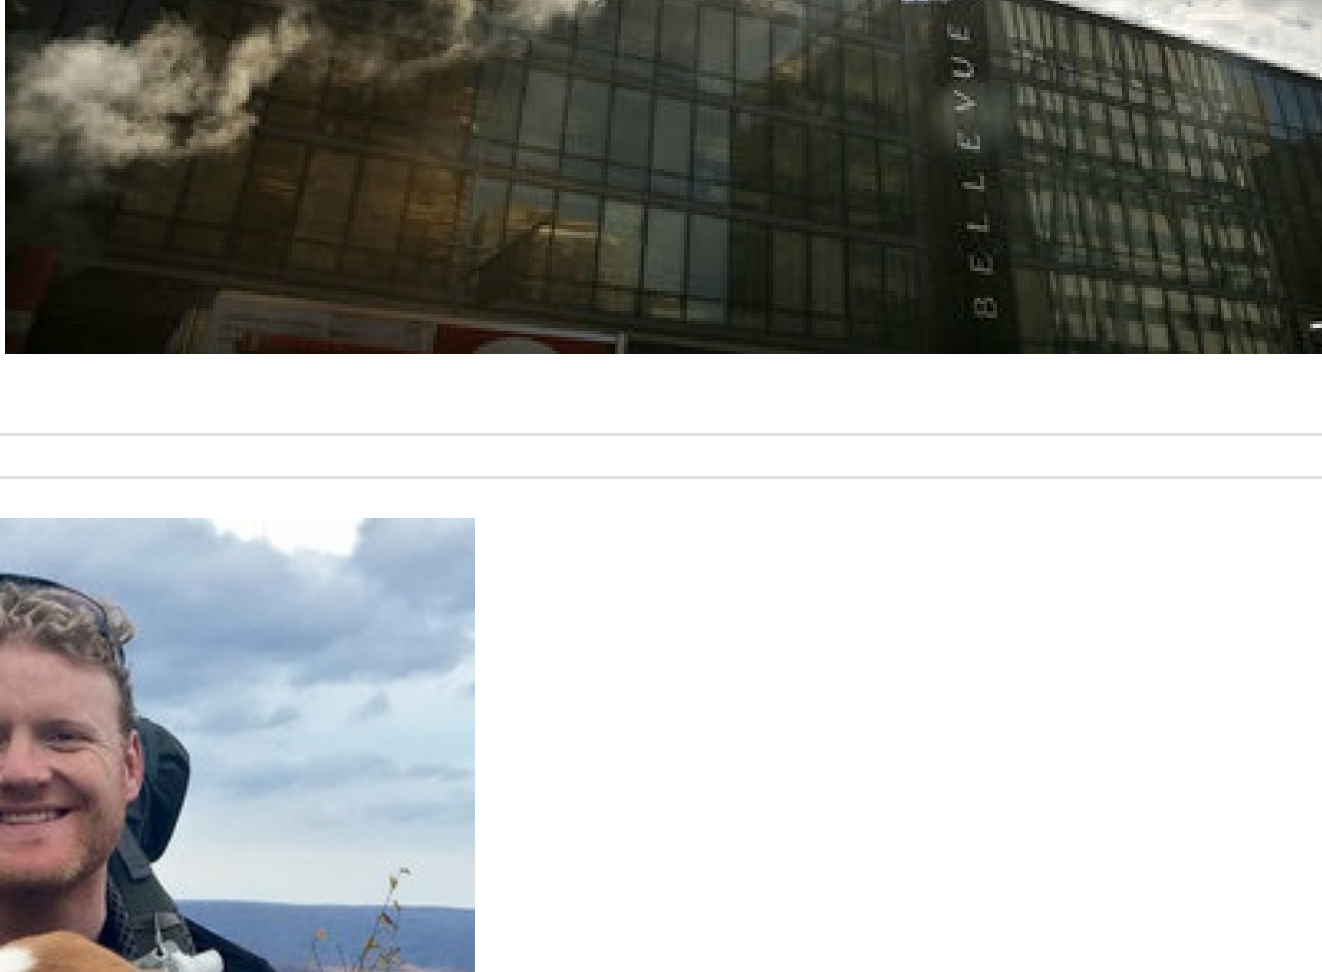

Yates, Clapper To Testify In Open House Hearing On Russian Election Meddling

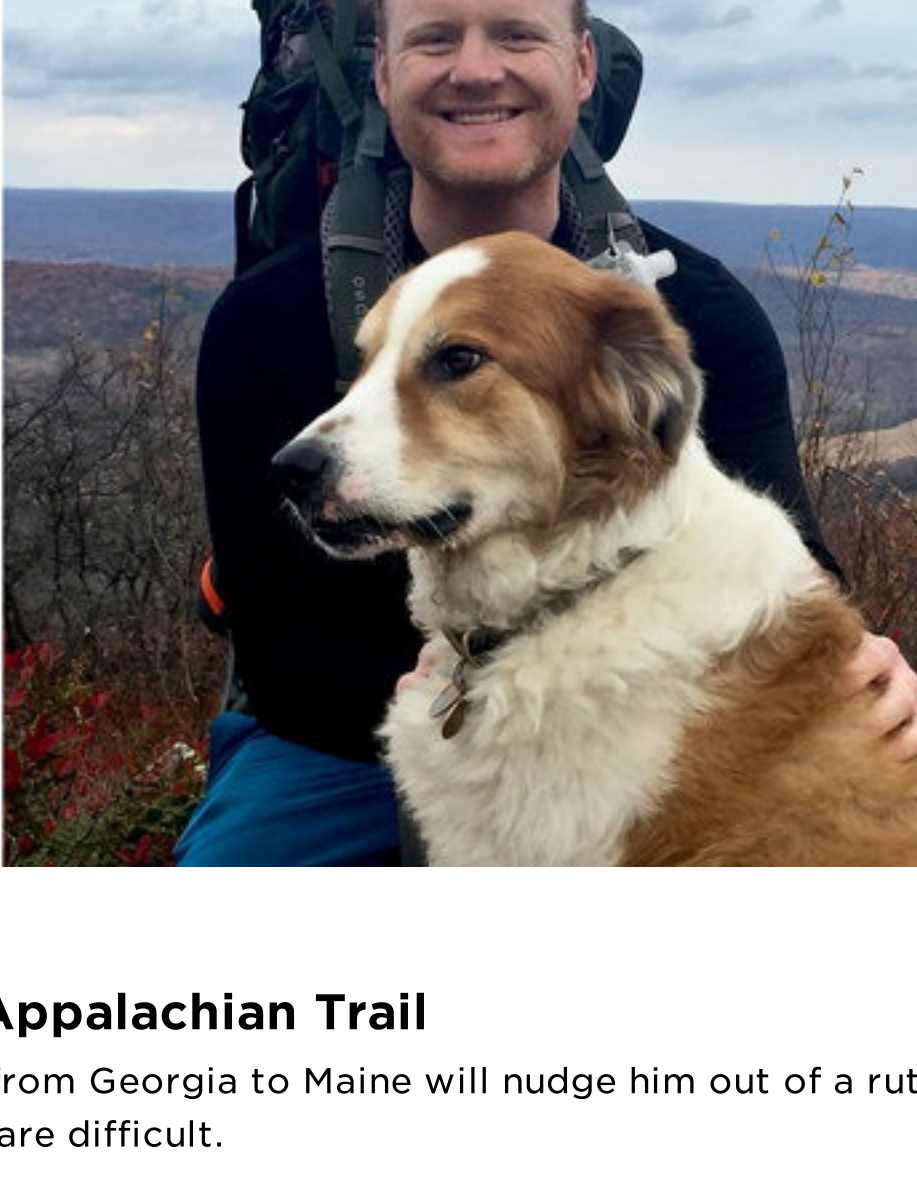

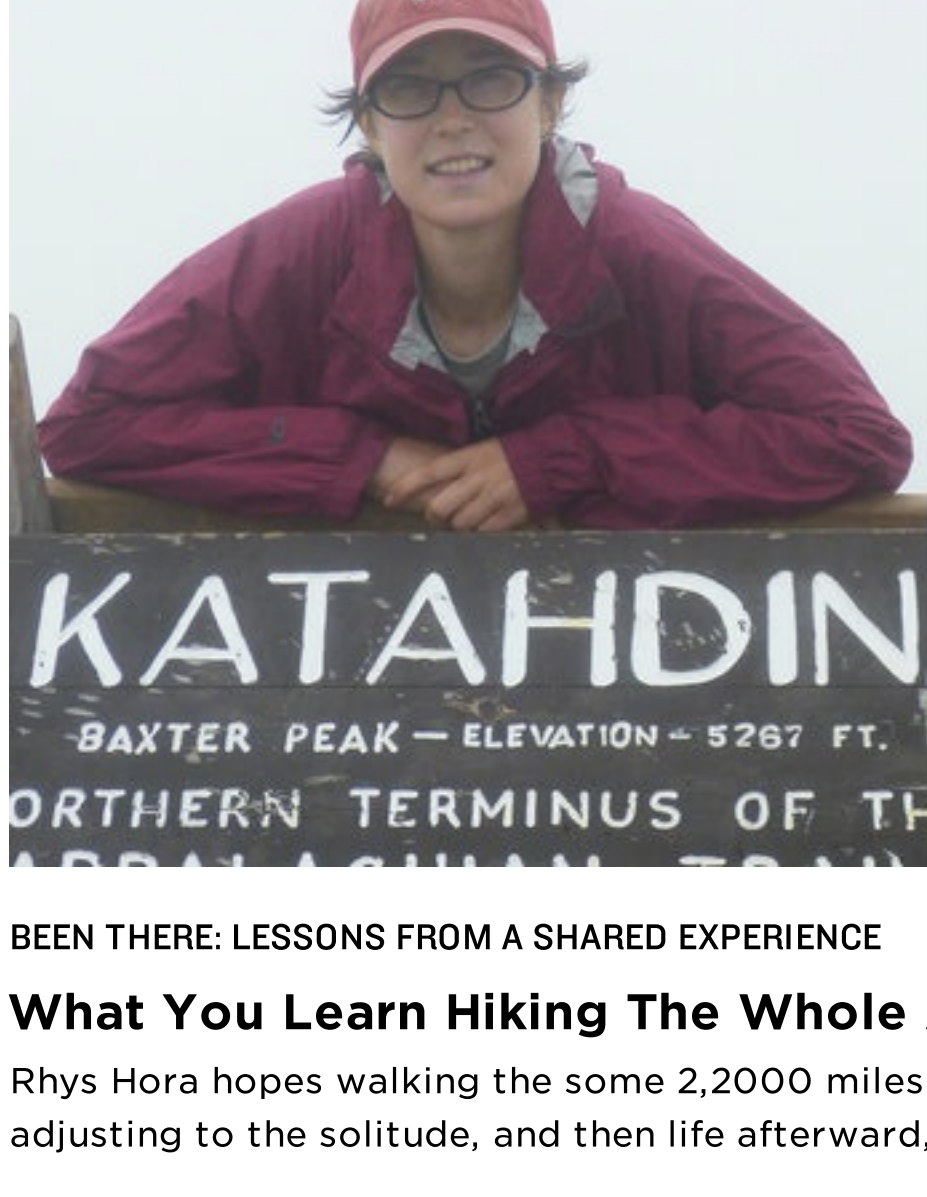

SHOTS - HEALTH NEWS

Psychiatrist Recalls 'Heartbreak And Hope' On Mental Hospital's Prison Ward

FRESH AIR

Dr. Elizabeth Ford treated mentally ill inmates in New York City for more than a decade. It was almost universal, she says, that they had suffered abuse or significant neglect as children.

BEEN THERE: LESSONS FROM A SHARED EXPERIENCE

What You Learn Hiking The Whole Appalachian Trail

Rhys Hora hopes walking the some 2,200 miles from Georgia to Maine will nudge him out of a rut. Sara Leibold did it in 2011 and says adjusting to the solitude, and then life afterward, are difficult.

Listen · 5:02

Queue

Courtesy of Sara Leibold/Courtesy of Rhys Hora

U.S.

Fighting Steep Odds, Flint Starts To See Bright Spots

MICHIGAN RADIO

Despite its recent water crisis and economic troubles, there is a trend of urban hipness in Flint, Mich.'s small downtown and a partnership to help the city's children.

Listen · 3:54

Queue

CODE SWITCH

Cherokee Nation Sues Wal-Mart, CVS, Walgreens Over Tribal Opioid Crisis

But the Cherokee tribe says these companies regularly filled large, suspicious prescriptions within the Cherokee Nation's 14 counties in northeastern Oklahoma.

POLITICS

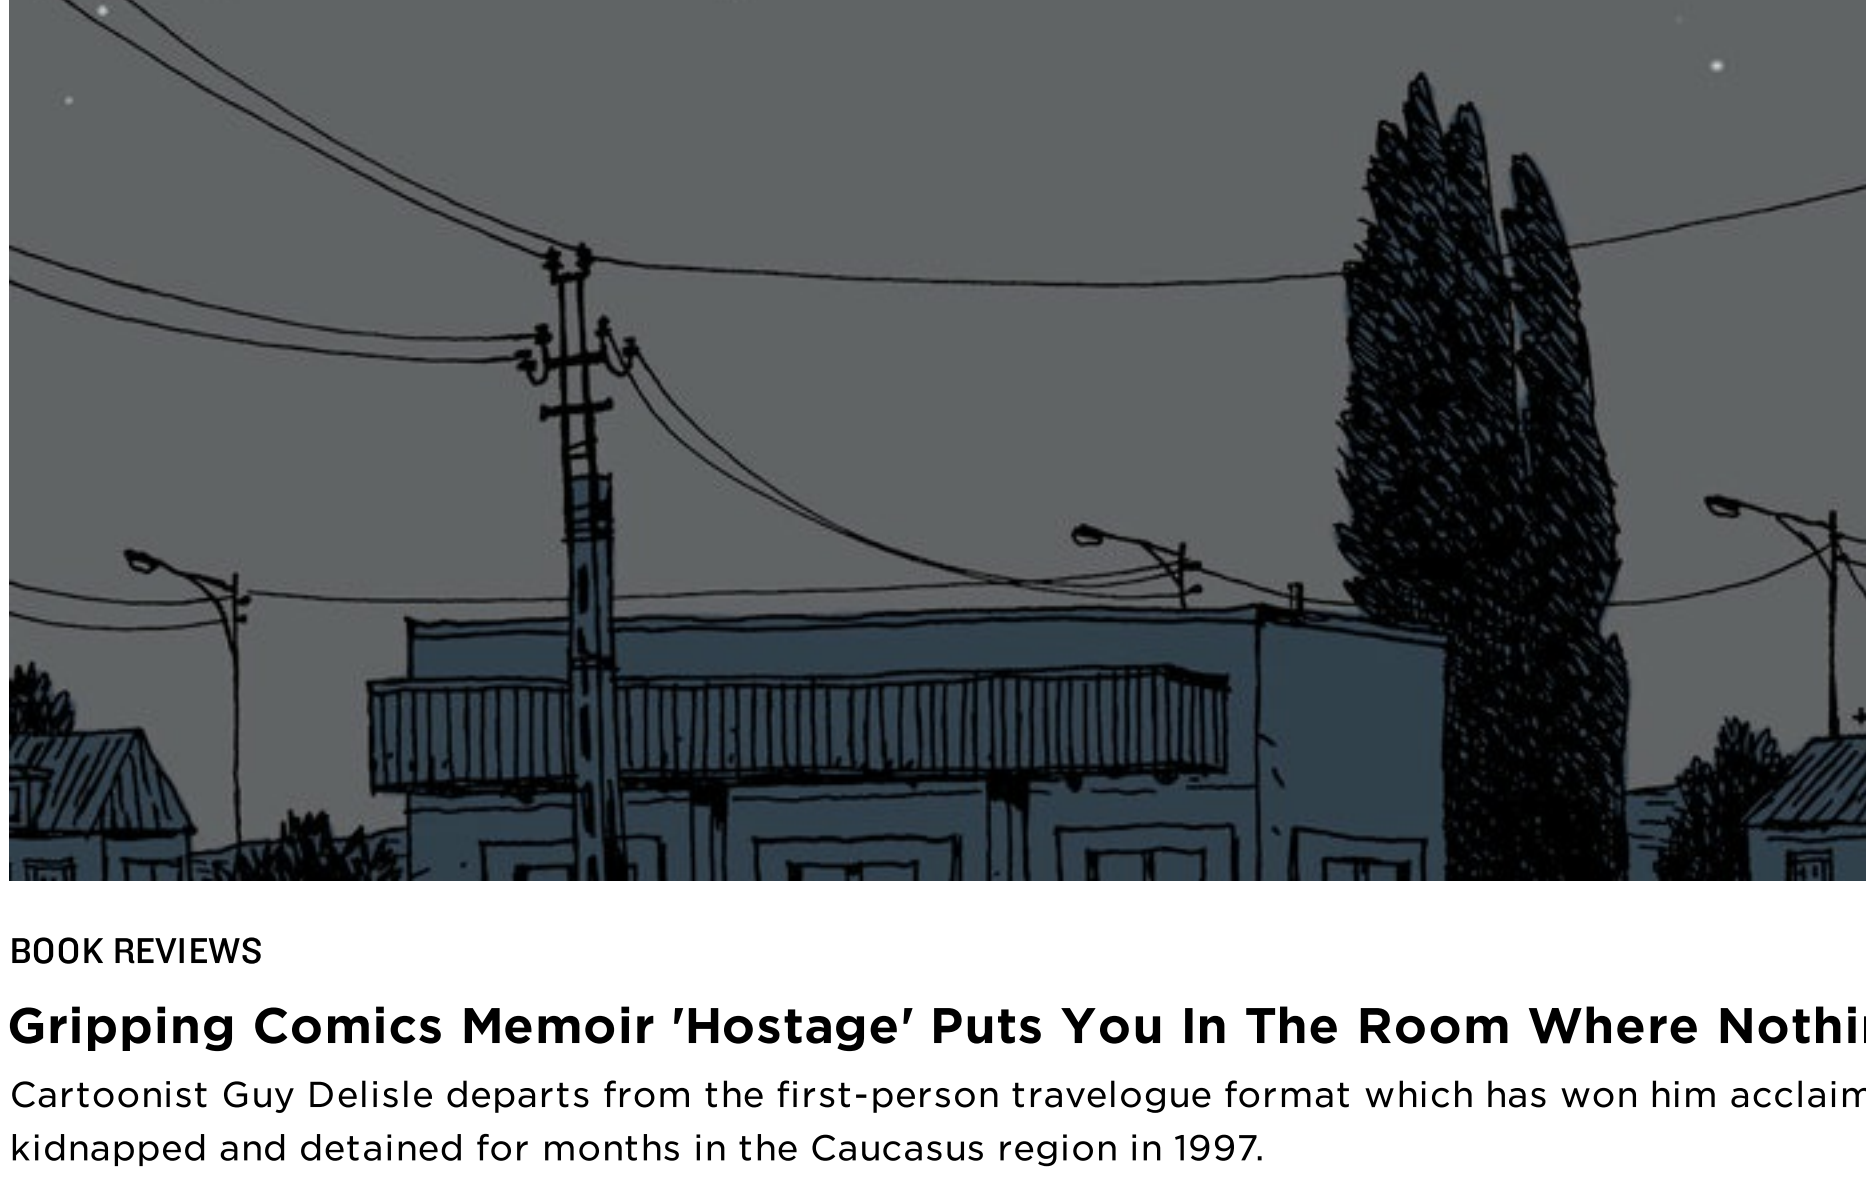

With Shutdown Possible, Trump Is Tweeting Out Demands. Will He Stick By Them?

The clock is ticking to a government shutdown, and President Trump keeps adding to the list of what he wants — 140 characters at a time.

Trump Tweets, Annotated: President Renews Pledge To Build Wall, But Won't Say When

At Holocaust Remembrance Ceremony, Trump Vows To Confront Anti-Semitism

BOOK REVIEWS

Gripping Comics Memoir 'Hostage' Puts You In The Room Where Nothing Happens

C cartoonist Guy Delisle departs from the first-person travelogue format which has won him acclaim to chronicle the true story of a man kidnapped and detained for months in the Caucasus region in 1997.

Drawn and Quarterly

MUSIC NEWS

Remembering Ella Fitzgerald, Who Made Great Songs Greater

On her 100th birthday, Tony Bennett, Cécile McLorin Salvant and others pay tribute to the woman whose voice and vivacity redefined the Great American Songbook.

Listen · 8:00

Queue

THE TWO-WAY - NEWS BLOG

'Mega-Robbery' In Paraguay: Dozens Reportedly Took Part In Violent Heist

A gang of some 50 bandits assaulted a private security company and reportedly made off with millions of dollars in what's being called a crime of the century on Paraguay's border with Brazil.

THE TWO-WAY - NEWS BLOG

Dale Earnhardt Jr. Retiring From NASCAR At Season's End

The star driver told NPR just two weeks ago that he wasn't sure when he'd be leaving the sport. He recently took time off to recover from a concussion.

THE TWO-WAY - NEWS BLOG

A Worm May Hold The Key To Biodegrading Plastic

More than a trillion plastic bags are used annually. They're made of a notoriously resilient kind of plastic called polyethylene — but scientists have found that wax worms are able to break them down.

Listen · 1:59

Queue

Wayne Boo/USGS Bee Inventory and Monitoring Lab

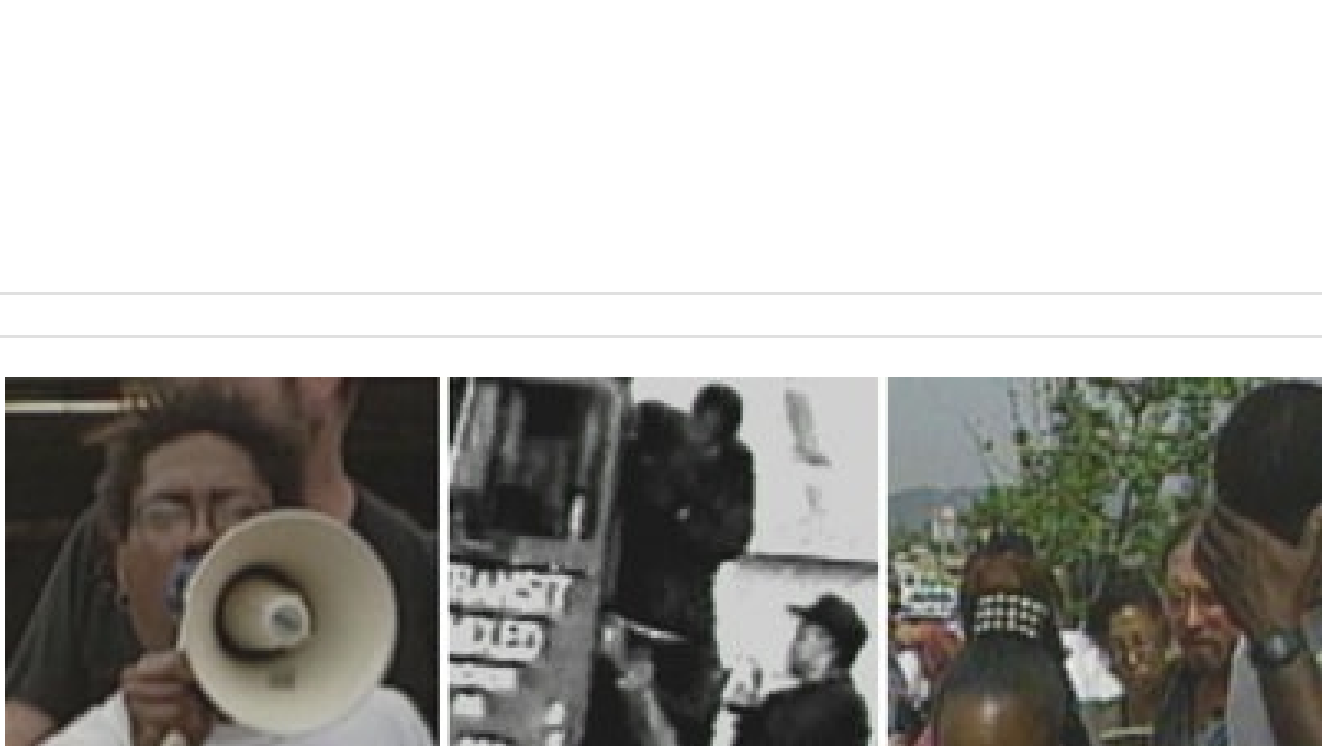

CODE SWITCH

5 Films Look At The Los Angeles Riots From (Almost) Every Angle

The documentaries attempt to complete the picture of what transpired in LA in 1992 after Rodney King was beaten by police, including how the riots affected a wide swath of Angelenos.

Listen · 5:07

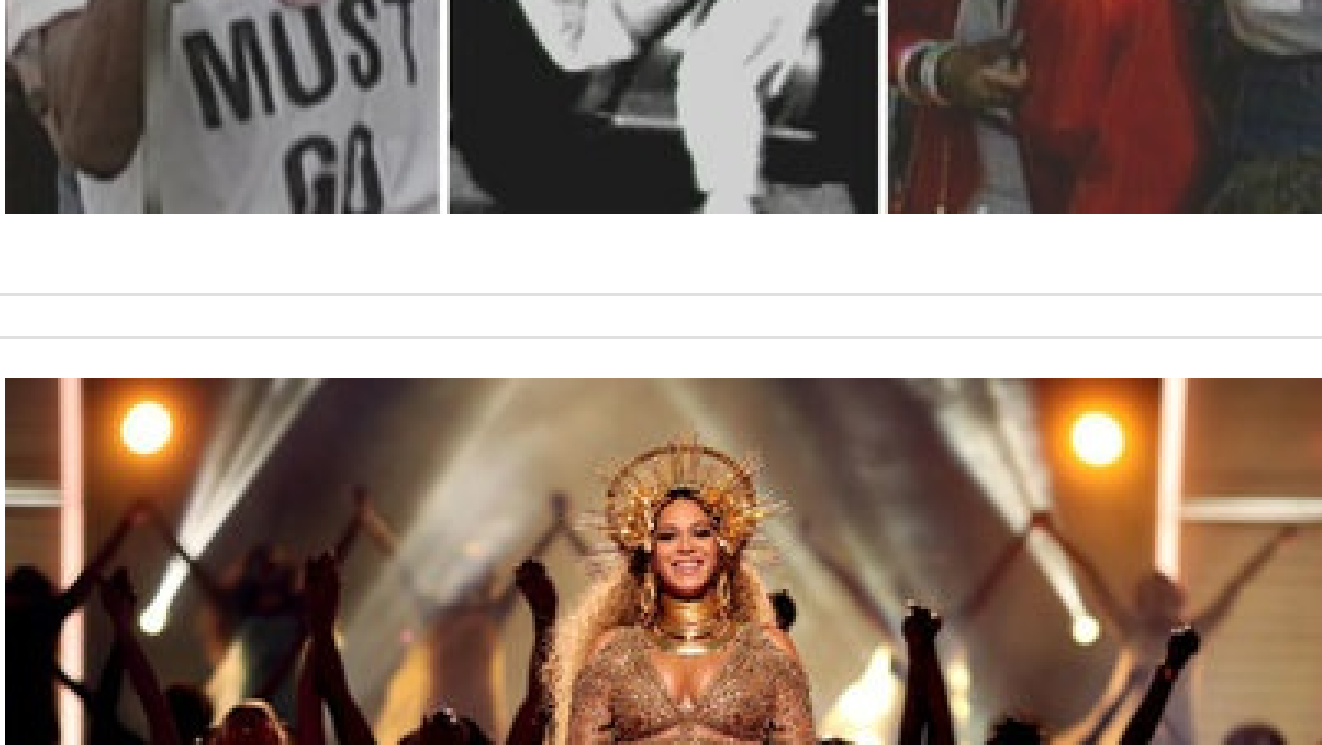

Queue

THE RECORD

Beyoncé Funds College Scholarship Award For 'Bold, Creative' Women

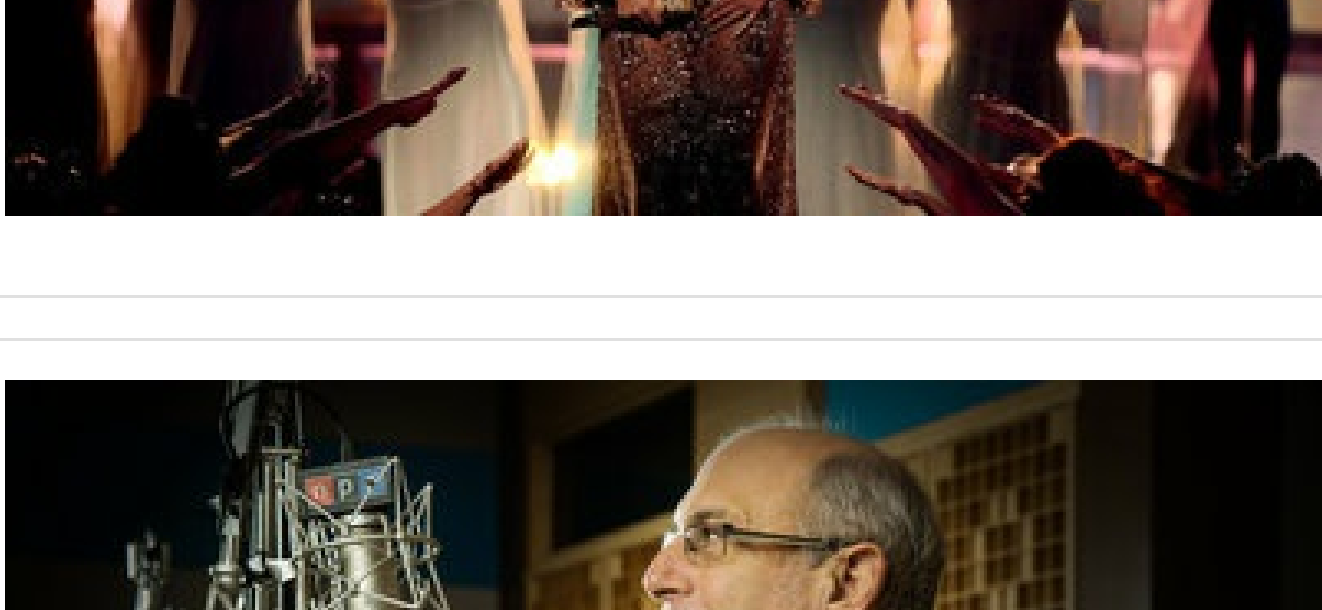

Tied to the one-year anniversary of her Lemonade project, she will be funding "Formation Scholars" at four institutions of higher learning, including two historically black colleges.

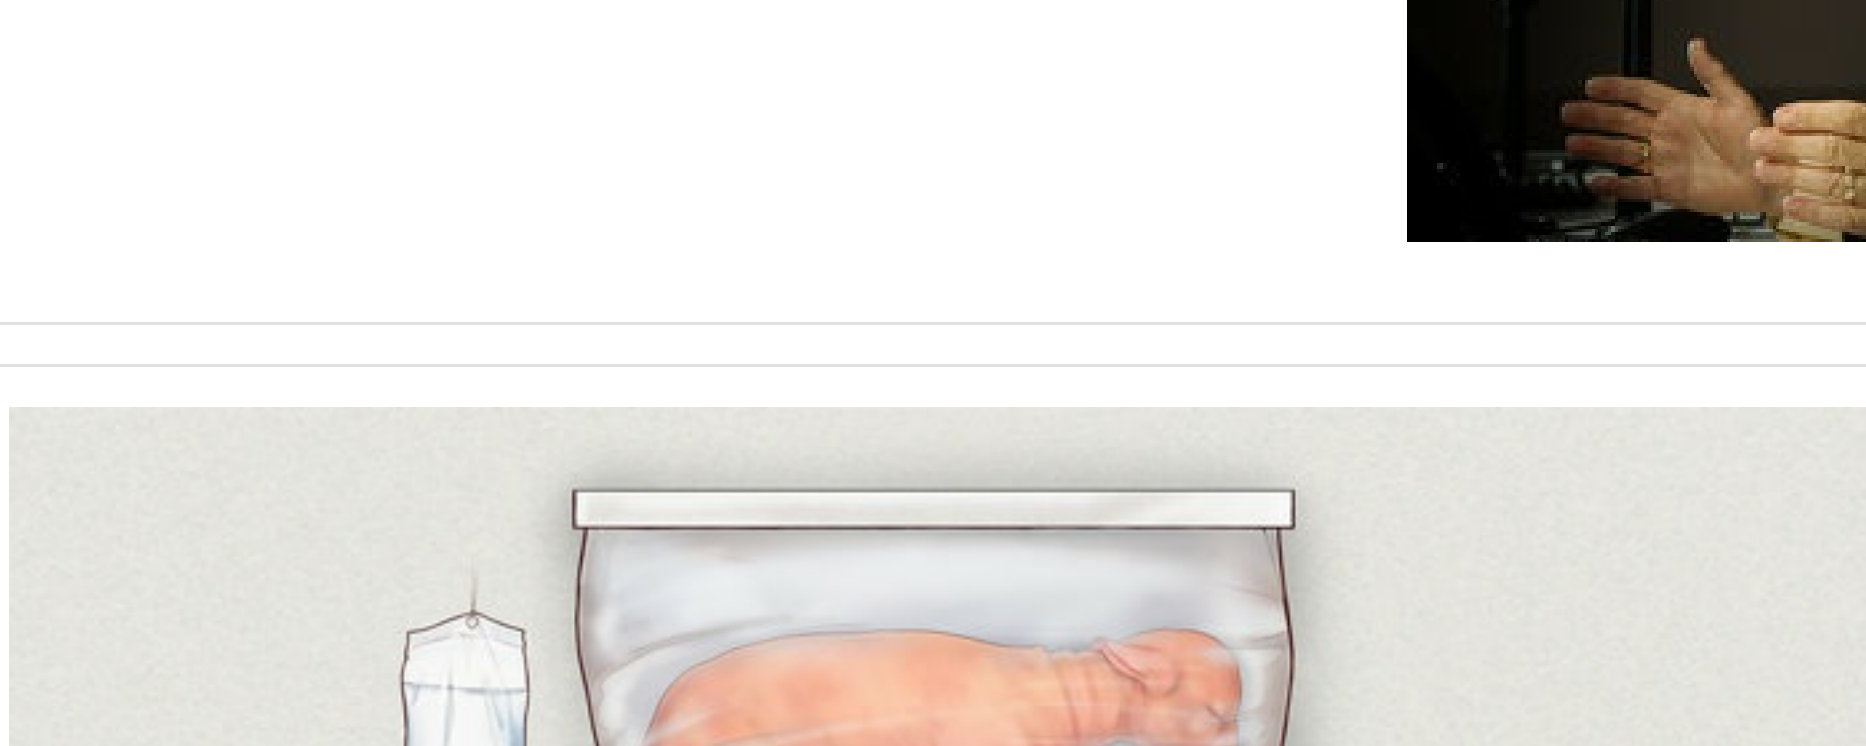

THE TWO-WAY - NEWS BLOG

Robert Siegel Stepping Down As 'All Things Considered' Host In 2018

Siegel has spent more than 40 years at NPR — and more than three decades as host of All Things Considered. He says he will be leaving that role in January to "begin a new phase of life."

SHOTS - HEALTH NEWS

Scientists Create Artificial Womb That Could Help Prematurely Born Babies

The device kept fetal lambs alive for about a month, allowing them to continue to mature. It has not been tested in humans, and some say the device raises ethical questions.

more stories

news

arts & life

music

back to top

© 2017 npr