Looming
Gorsuch Votes
Put Red-State
Democrats in a
Bind

Senate leaders sparred over this week's vote on Neil Gorsuch's nomination to the Supreme Court, a battle that puts Democrats in red-leaning states in the position of choosing between a Republican-nominated judge and their own party's wish to block President Trump. 🗣️ 460

The Rising Retirement Perils of 401(k) 'Leakage'

American companies are trying to stop employees from raiding their 401(k)s, in an attempt to ensure that older workers can afford to retire and make room for younger, less-expensive hires.

THE OUTLOOK

Rethinking the Widely Held 2% Inflation Target

Inflation has finally returned to the Fed's 2% goal after undershooting it for nearly five years. Now, just as the central bank has inflation where it wants it, economists are starting to think the goal itself was a mistake. 🗣️ 55

Oil Companies' Prize: Breaking Even

Despite billions of dollars in cuts and a modest oil-price rebound, producers didn't make enough money in 2016 to cover costs, according to a Wall Street Journal analysis.

Syria's Civil War Produces a Clear Winner: Hezbollah

The Lebanese militant group, labeled a terror organization by the U.S., has grown stronger through its support of the Assad regime, battling Syrian rebels alongside Russian forces and training local Shiite fighters

Trump Willing to Act Unilaterally on North Korea

President Trump emphasized that the U.S. is willing to take unilateral action against North Korea if China doesn't move to contain the burgeoning nuclear power, as he put trade and the threat from Pyongyang at the top of the agenda of his meeting with Chinese President Xi Jinping.

Colombia Searches for Survivors of Flood, Landslide

Colombia's army and emergency response teams continued their search for survivors of a flood and landslide in remote Putumayo state that left more than 200 people dead and more than 200 others missing, officials said.

Stronger manufacturing activity bodes well for economic growth but isn't necessarily great for stock investors

Europe Deal Value Pushed Sharply Higher, Despite China's Pullback

After more than tripling last year, Chinese acquisitions in Europe fell 87% in the first quarter, but a drive by North American and European companies to boost profits has pushed deal value in Europe sharply higher in the first three months of 2017.

Fading Fears Over Trade Policy Power Overseas Rebound

Investors are dialing back expectations for a major shift in U.S. trade policy, fueling a sharp rebound in the prices of some early targets of President Donald Trump's rhetoric. 🗣️ 81

Active Managers Stage a Comeback

As more actively managed funds beat their benchmarks, some investors are optimistic that conditions are right for their resurgence to continue, eventually slowing the flow of money into lower-cost index-tracking funds, a trend that has hounded active funds in recent years.
