

House passes spending deal to keep government open another week

The U.S. Senate is expected to pass the short-term deal later today, and House and Senate negotiators are expected to work through the weekend to finalize a longer-term deal that would fund the government through the end of the fiscal year in September.

‘I was all set to terminate’: Inside Trump’s sudden reversal on pulling out of NAFTA

In an Oval Office interview with The Post, President Trump said he had “looked forward” to announcing the U.S. withdrawal from the trade deal on the 100th day of his presidency. But his impulsive turnabout was the latest in a series of abrupt shifts in the frenzied lead-up to his 100th day.

This is how Trump looks out for the people who voted for him

It wasn't pleas from foreign leaders or CEOs that prompted the president to change his mind about NAFTA. It was a map of the United States that apparently proved decisive in the tug-of-war between the populists and the globalists inside the administration.

Pulitzer Prize-winning reporting: Uncovering Trump

In February 2016, presidential candidate Donald Trump promised $6 million in donations, including $1 million from his own pocket, to charities along his campaign trail. Months later, he had donated far less than he pledged. Post reporter David A. Fahrenthold went in search of the missing money and found a bigger story than he ever expected.
