

Congress passes spending deal to keep government open another week

The short-term spending agreement to keep the federal government open for another week was approved overwhelmingly. House and Senate negotiators are expected to work through the weekend to finalize a longer-term deal that would fund the government through the end of the fiscal year in September.

By Kelsey Snell, Ed O'Keefe and Robert Costa • 42 minutes ago

• Analysis: What happens now that Congress has dodged a shutdown

DEVELOPING

North Korea test-fires missile amid high tensions with U.S.

South Korea's Joint Chiefs of Staff said North Korea has test-fired a missile from the western part of its country. North Korea routinely test-fires a variety of ballistic missiles, despite United Nations prohibitions, as part of its push to develop a long-range ballistic missile capable of hitting U.S. shores.

By Associated Press • 18 minutes ago

• Tillerson calls for 'painful' measures to punish North Korea

The Daily 202 Analysis

This is how Trump looks out for the people who voted for him

It wasn't pleas from foreign leaders or CEOs that prompted the president to change his mind about NAFTA. It was a map of the United States that apparently proved decisive in the tug of war between the populists and the globalists inside the administration.

By James Hohmann

• The Fix: Can Trump 'absolutely' break up a federal court standing in his way?

• 'Was all set to terminate': Inside Trump's sudden reversal on NAFTA

Demonstrators protest in front of LAPD headquarters. (AP)

Retropolis The Past, Rediscovered

'Burn, baby, burn': What I saw as a black journalist covering the L.A. riots 25 years ago

A Post editor who was a Time correspondent in 1992 remembers the worst unrest in U.S. history – a time before Black Lives Matter – triggered in Los Angeles by the acquittal of four white police officers in the brutal, videotaped beating of Rodney King.

By Sylvester Monroe

First 100 Days

Alone in the White House, Trump is enjoying the perks of his new home

He enjoys leading guests on trivia-filled tours. He brags about the specialties of the White House chefs. But the fact that Trump entertained a dinner party, which included Ted Nugent and Sarah Palin, for four hours last week may indicate his hunger for company.

By Krissah Thompson

Analysis

Trump now agrees with the majority of Americans: He wasn't ready to be president

At no point over the course of the 2016 campaign did a majority polled think that Donald Trump would be qualified on Day 1. "This is more work than in my previous life," he said this week. "I thought it would be easier.... I do miss my old life."

By Philip Bump

Opinions

First 100 Days

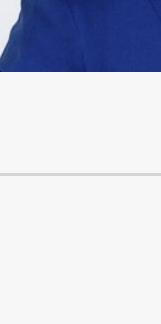

A deep dive into Trump's elaborate fantasyland

By Dana Milbank

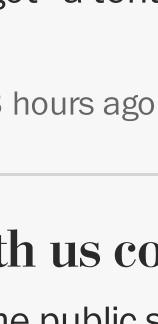

Is Trump learning — or ad-libbing — on foreign policy?

By Michael McFaul

The fight over sanctuary cities is a good fight to have

By Ed Rogers

Republicans are kidding themselves about Trump's foreign policy

By Jennifer Rubin

First 100 Days

Here's how Post opinion writers have judged other presidents' first 100 days

By Molly Roberts and Becca Clemons

Trump exposes the myth of 'running government like a business'

By James Downie

More Top Stories

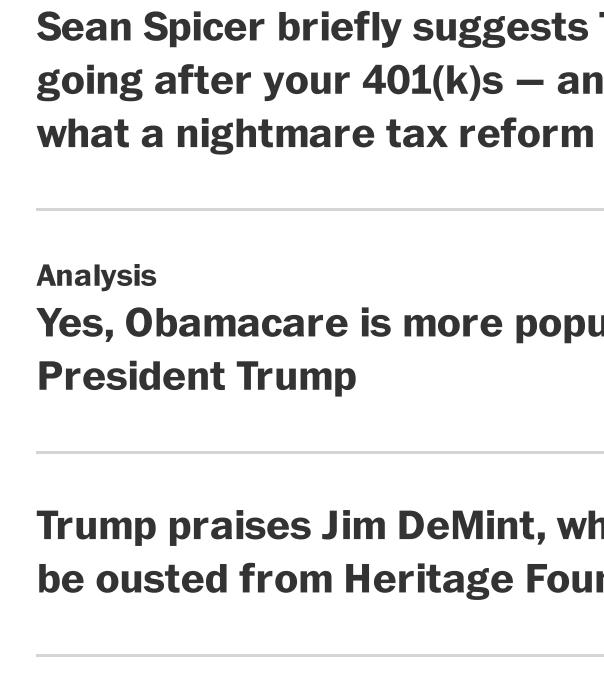

'I am going to come through for you,' Trump vows to NRA

President Trump, the first sitting president to address the NRA since Ronald Reagan, delivered a fiery speech in which he recounted his administration's actions that are friendly to the gun rights group and promised more to come.

By John Wagner and Elise Viebeck • 2 hours ago

• Trump again derides Elizabeth Warren as 'Pocahontas' during NRA speech

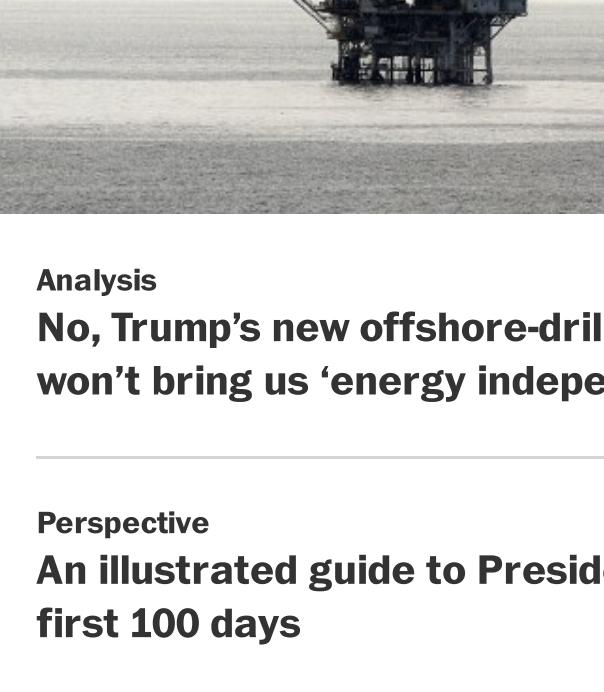

Court freezes lawsuit against Clean Power Plan, signaling likely end to Obama's signature climate policy

President Trump had instructed the EPA to rewrite rules limiting carbon emissions from power plants, and he ordered the attorney general to ask a federal court to suspend litigation. The court has now granted the request.

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis • 2 hours ago

• Trump signs executive order to expand drilling off America's coasts: 'We're opening it up.'

• Tens of thousands to gather in sweltering heat for Saturday's climate march in Washington

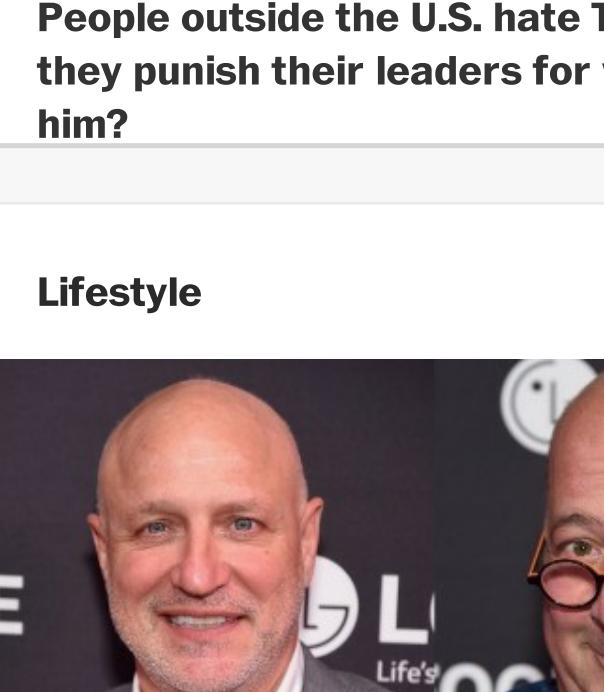

Judges take Trump at his word — and that has not been good for the president

In both the "sanctuary cities" and travel-ban cases, federal judges used the president's own comments against him.

By Matt Zapototsky • 3 hours ago

• Fact Checker: 2 Pinocchios for White House claim that 'sanctuary cities' are illegal

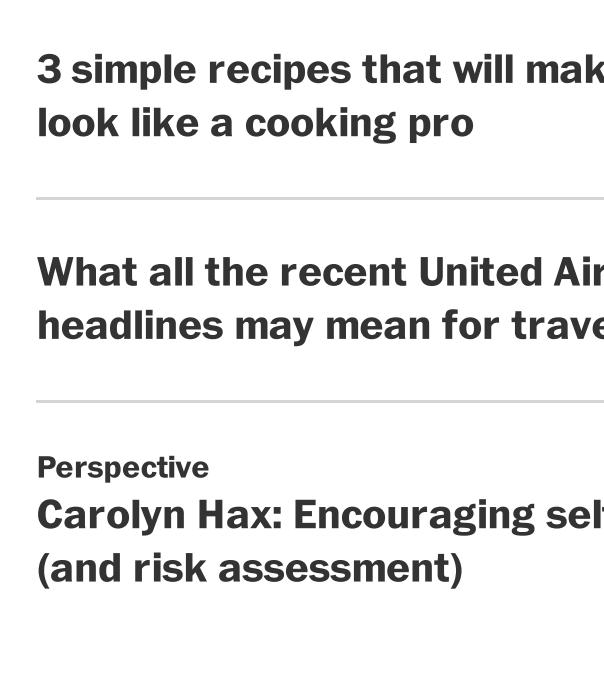

Workblog Analysis The latest bad economic news isn't Trump's fault, but he has made it his problem

The downside for Trump is that though the economy may be sound, it's not roaring, and a host of longer-term factors mean it's unlikely to hit rocket growth any time soon.

By Max Ehrenfreund

• U.S. economic growth rate slowed in first quarter of 2017

U.S. military probes deaths of two Army Rangers, who might have been killed in 'friendly fire'

The elite soldiers were killed on a nighttime raid in Afghanistan during a three-hour firefight with Islamic State militants.

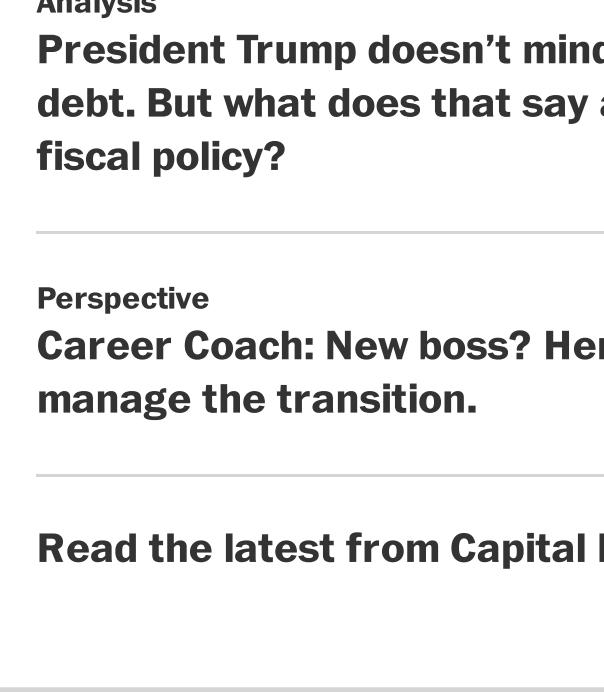

By Dan Lamothe and Thomas Gibbons-Neff

They were kicked out of college for sexual misconduct. Now they're suing to clear their names.

The legal pushback from some men has emerged in response to a wave of campus activism in recent years and a shift in federal enforcement of Title IX.

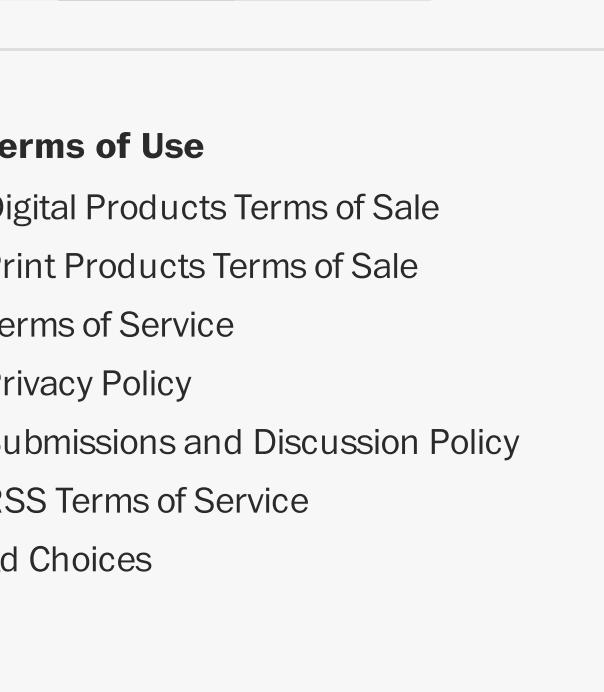

By T. Rees Shapiro

The Intersect The complete and utter disaster that was the celebrity-backed Fyre music festival

People paid thousands to attend a luxury music festival organized by Ja Rule. Instead, they got "a tent on a rocky outcropping near a Sandals resort."

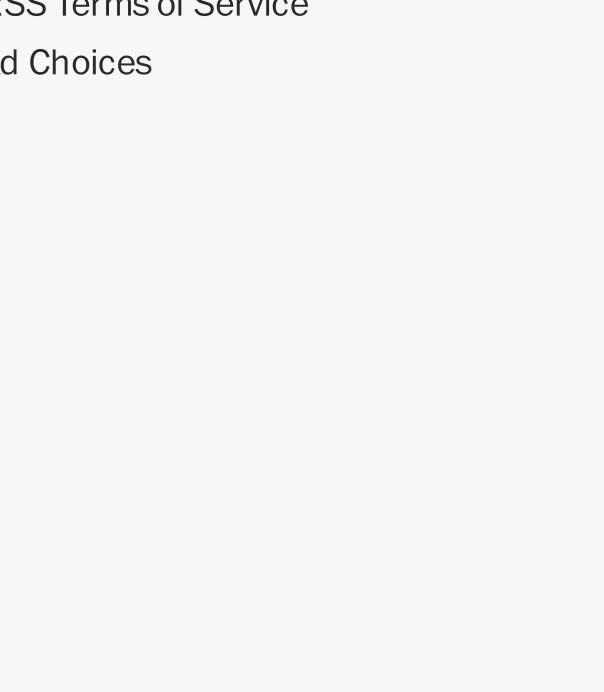

By Abby Ohlheiser • 3 hours ago

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more »

Visual Stories

In Sight

These photos show life for displaced typhoon victims forced into the sex trade

By Hannah Reyes Morales

Politics

What the new House Republican plan changes about Obamacare

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Analysis

Yes, Obamacare is more popular than President Trump

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Analysis

Trump praises Jim DeMint, who soon might be ousted from Heritage Foundation job

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Analysis

I'm going to come through for you,' Trump vows to NRA

By John Wagner and Elise Viebeck

Analysis

Trump's new, one-page tax plan is the same as his old, one-page tax plan

By John Wagner and Elise Viebeck

Analysis

President Trump doesn't mind business debt. But what does that say about his fiscal policy?

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Analysis

Career Coach: New boss? Here's how to manage the transition.

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Read the latest from Capital Business

Lifestyle

The next big march in Washington should be for food, celebrity chefs say

By T. Rees Shapiro

3 simple recipes that will make a newbie look like a cooking pro

By T. Rees Shapiro

What all the recent United Airlines headlines may mean for travelers

By T. Rees Shapiro

Perspective

Carolyn Hax: Encouraging self-expression (and risk assessment)

By Carolyn Hax

Analysis

Palestinians are rewarding terrorists. The U.S. should stop enabling them.

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Analysis

People outside the U.S. hate Trump. Will they punish their leaders for working with him?

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Analysis

These photos show life for displaced typhoon victims forced into the sex trade

By Hannah Reyes Morales

Analysis

No, Trump's new offshore-drilling rule won't bring us 'energy independence'

By Juliet Eilperin and Brady Dennis

Perspective

Alan Barry Photography

Analysis

Inside the 2017 Kips Bay Decorator Show House

By Alan Barry Photography