

Great journalism
needs you.

April 26, 2017

The Washington Post

Democracy Dies in Darkness

Support the work.
Start for 99¢

Edition: U.S. & World | Regional

In the News Giant rabbit White students Trump judicial attacks Facebook hanging God and poverty Eagle 'chop shop' Death penalty HuffPost

Trump's dramatic tax overhaul calls for sharply lower rates for individuals, businesses

The proposal — a one-page outline that leaves key details incomplete — would also eliminate key tax breaks. It would reduce the number of income tax brackets from seven to three, and lower the corporate tax rate from 35 percent to 15 percent.

By Damian Paletta

- How Trump's tax proposal could impact his own business empire

Wonkblog Analysis

In new tax plan, Trump promises to do what Reagan couldn't

The president's advisers touted the proposed tax cuts as the start of an economic renaissance that would supercharge the U.S. economy and pare the federal debt, but economists were very skeptical that the plan could deliver the level of growth Trump promised.

By Max Ehrenfreund • 51 minutes ago

- Six ways the plan could affect ordinary taxpayers

Administration talks tough on North Korea, but frustrated lawmakers want details

Senators departing the briefing expressed frustration that the administration shared few details of its current policy on North Korea and its plans to deal with the country as it continues developing its nuclear weapons program.

By David Nakamura and Ed O'Keefe • 1 hour ago

- North Korea's Special Operations forces are numerous, mysterious and formidable

From left: Katie Couric, Jenna Dewan-Tatum and Chrissy Teigen attend the White House Correspondents' Association Dinner in 2015. The late Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia is at rear left with Nina Totenberg. (Getty)

The rise and fall — or maybe renewal? — of the White House correspondents' dinner

After more than a decade of celebrity glitz and lavishly underwritten partying, Saturday's White House Correspondents' Association dinner is shaping up to be a slimmer-down, more sober, slightly dowdier affair. And for some longtime attendees — that's just fine.

By Amy Argetsinger

- Trump's attacks on media blamed for decline in U.S. standing in press-freedom survey

House conservatives endorse latest plan to revise Obamacare

The influential Freedom Caucus rallied behind the plan after it was endorsed by three conservative advocacy groups. The move shifts political pressure onto GOP moderates to determine the effort's fate.

By Elise Viebeck, David Weigel and Sean Sullivan • 1 hour ago

- Republicans look to undo health-care loophole that appears to benefit members of Congress and staff

Opinions

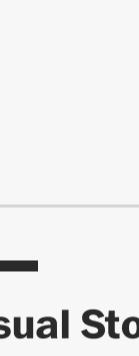

Trump's greatest single achievement almost never gets mentioned

By E.J. Dionne Jr.

Will France elect its own Barack Obama?

By George F. Will

In praise of President Trump (really)

By Dana Milbank

Trump's tax plan is built on a fairy tale

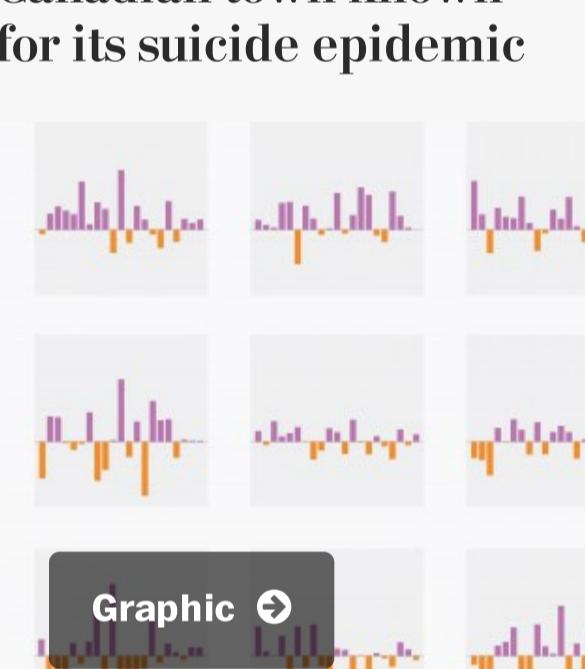

By Douglas Holt-Eakin

Trump has set out to protect lumber workers. Instead, he's helping lobbyists.

By Charles Lane

The nation's capital, where children live in fear

Editorial Board

More Top Stories

Trump considers order that would start process of withdrawing from NAFTA

The president is considering notifying Canada and Mexico that he is starting the process to withdraw the United States from the three nations' North American Free Trade Agreement, three people familiar with the process said.

By Damian Paletta

Republicans launch effort to roll back Dodd-Frank banking regulations

The GOP proposal would gut many of the rules that were put in place to rein in Wall Street after the financial crisis.

By Renae Merle

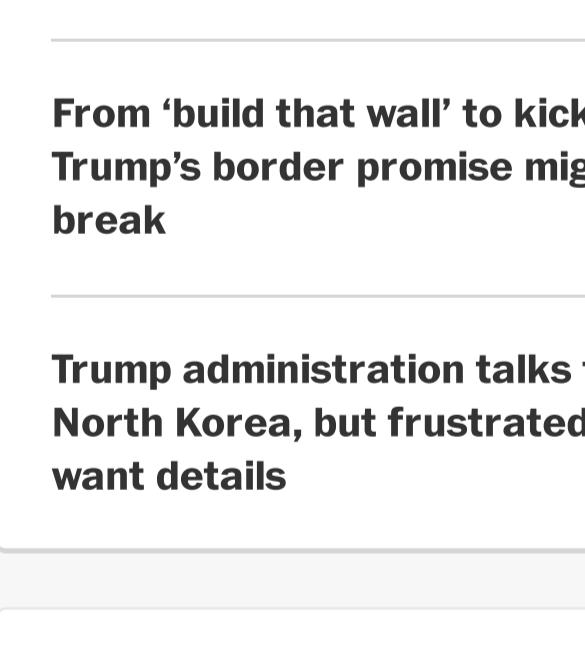

House Intelligence panel's Russia probe back on track after rocky start

It has new leadership, a new witness list and new plans for hearings. There are some tensions with the Senate, however.

By Karoun Demirjian • 2 hours ago

- @PKCapitol: Taxes and health care notwithstanding, Russia still looms over Trump and Congress

Trump calls national monuments a 'massive federal land grab'

The president signed an executive order directing Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke to review national monuments created since 1996, a move he said would "end another egregious use of government power."

By Juliet Eilperin

All the times Trump has personally attacked judges — and the danger that poses

One legal expert says Trump's attitude shows a lack of understanding of the equal roles of the three branches of government. "Presidents have disagreed with court rulings all the time. What's unusual is he's essentially challenging the legitimacy of the court's role," he said.

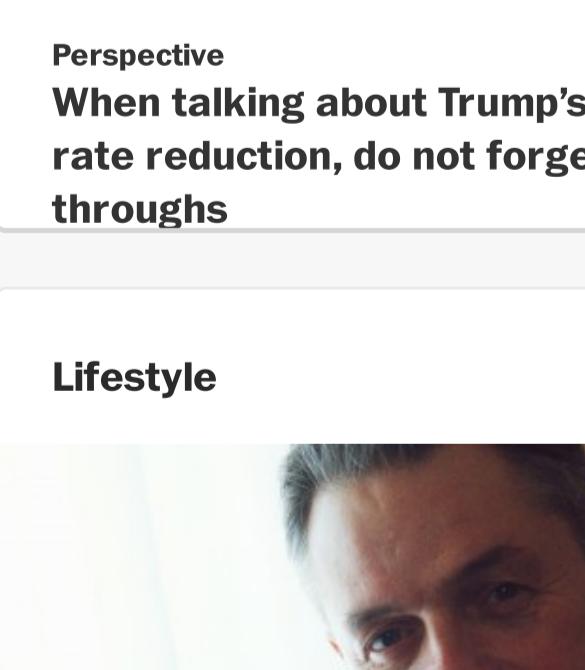

By Kristine Phillips

Breastfeeding mom told to cover up at Va. church to not make men, teens 'uncomfortable'

She was asked to move to a private room or cover up, which violates a Virginia law that says women have the right to breastfeed anywhere they have a legal right to be.

By Michael Alison Chandler and Laura Vozzella

Critic's Notebook

Jonathan Demme was the last of the great journeyman directors

The director, who died today, swung regularly between the worlds of documentaries and narrative features — from "Silence of the Lambs" to "Stop Making Sense" — and embodied the best principles of each, which in turn nourished his work in both.

By Ann Hornaday

- Act Four: In memory of Jonathan Demme, watch his last, lovely movie, 'Ricki and the Flash'

ESPN's massive round of layoffs continue into the early evening

When the names started to trickle out it became clear that ESPN's reporting ranks were especially devastated by the cuts, as a number of well-respected journalists who worked mostly for ESPN.com — as opposed to the network's on-air personalities — announced they were being let go.

By Matt Bonesteel • 2 hours ago

Retropolis The Past, Revisited

Before Ivanka Trump, other presidential daughters also wielded influence

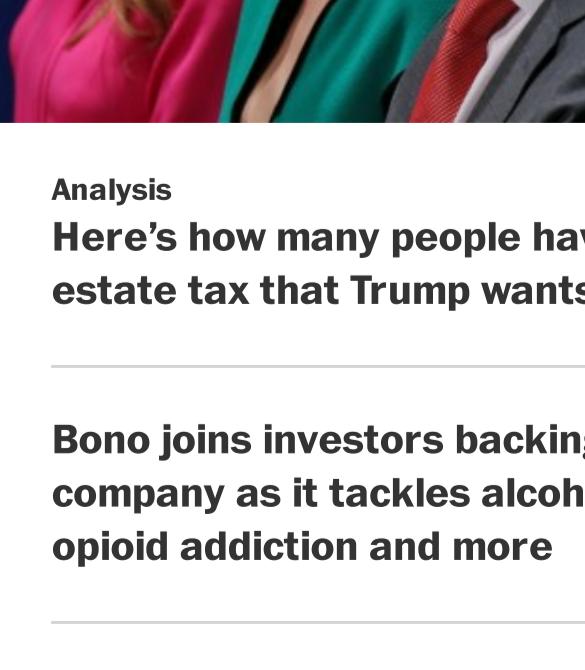

Although Ivanka's role as a special adviser is unprecedented, Anna Roosevelt accompanied her father, Franklin D. Roosevelt, to meet with Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin at Yalta.

By Steve Hendrix

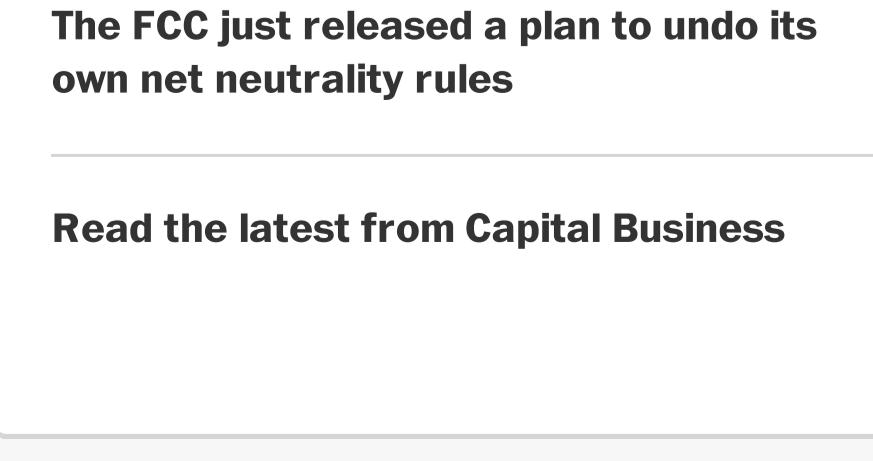

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more »

Visual Stories

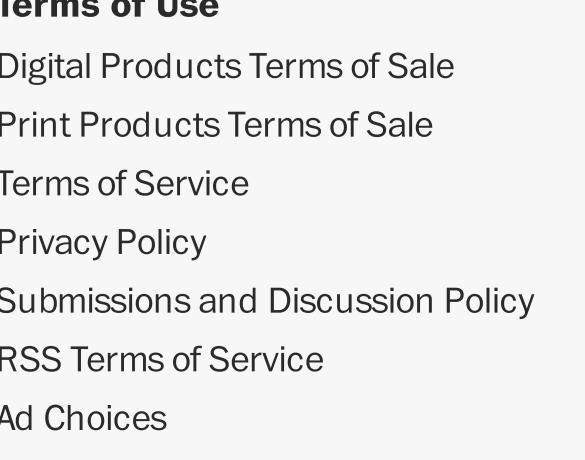

In Sight

What life is like in this Canadian town known for its suicide epidemic

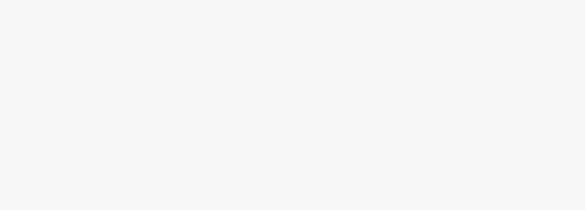

White House backs down on ACA demand, clearing a path for a spending deal

From 'build that wall' to kick the can: Trump's border promise might be hard to break

Trump administration talks tough on North Korea, but frustrated lawmakers want details

Perspective

People think juice is good for them. They're wrong.

Perspective

I have a clarifying question for Dr. Sebastian Gorka

Perspective

So what if protesters are paid?

Perspective

When talking about Trump's corporate rate reduction, do not forget pass-throughs

Perspective

Carolyn Hax: Want to get closer to your daughter? Offer assistance.

Business

What the Obamas have been doing since they left the White House

Trending:

'Commuter Barbie' is a parody masterpiece; these Dorito bags play cassette tapes

Perspective

Trump's attacks on media blamed for decline in U.S. standing in press-freedom survey

Read the latest from Capital Business

Analysis

Here's how many people have to pay the estate tax that Trump wants to dump

Bono joins investors backing this D.C. tech company as it tackles alcohol abuse, opioid addiction and more

The FCC just released a plan to undo net neutrality rules

Trump's first 100 days: How have feds and their agencies fared?

Perspective

Support grows for small agency with big reach on Trump's budget death row

Politics

Kellyanne Conway and the White House's 100-day alternative facts

Analysis

White House backs down on ACA demand, clearing a path for a spending deal

From 'build that wall' to kick the can: Trump's border promise might be hard to break

Trump administration talks tough on North Korea, but frustrated lawmakers want details

Perspective

People think juice is good for them. They're wrong.

Perspective

I have a clarifying question for Dr. Sebastian Gorka

Perspective

So what if protesters are paid?

Perspective

When talking about Trump's corporate rate reduction, do not forget pass-throughs

Business

What the Obamas have been doing since they left the White House

