

Great journalism
needs you.

April 29, 2017

Democracy Dies in Darkness

Support the work.
Start for 99¢

Edition: U.S. & World | Regional

In the News American detained Delta pilot Fyre Festival Classroom bullying Baby's death LGBTQ+ therapy' Delta passenger Correspondents' dinner

First 100 Days

After a tumultuous start, Trump hopes for a smoother agenda on jobs, taxes

But the next few months will not get any easier for the president. While Republicans have control of Congress and set the agenda, they have few opportunities to pass partisan priorities before turning to a series of complicated subjects that require bipartisan action.

By Abby Phillip and Ed O'Keefe

Trump invigorates, enchants crowd at Pennsylvania rally

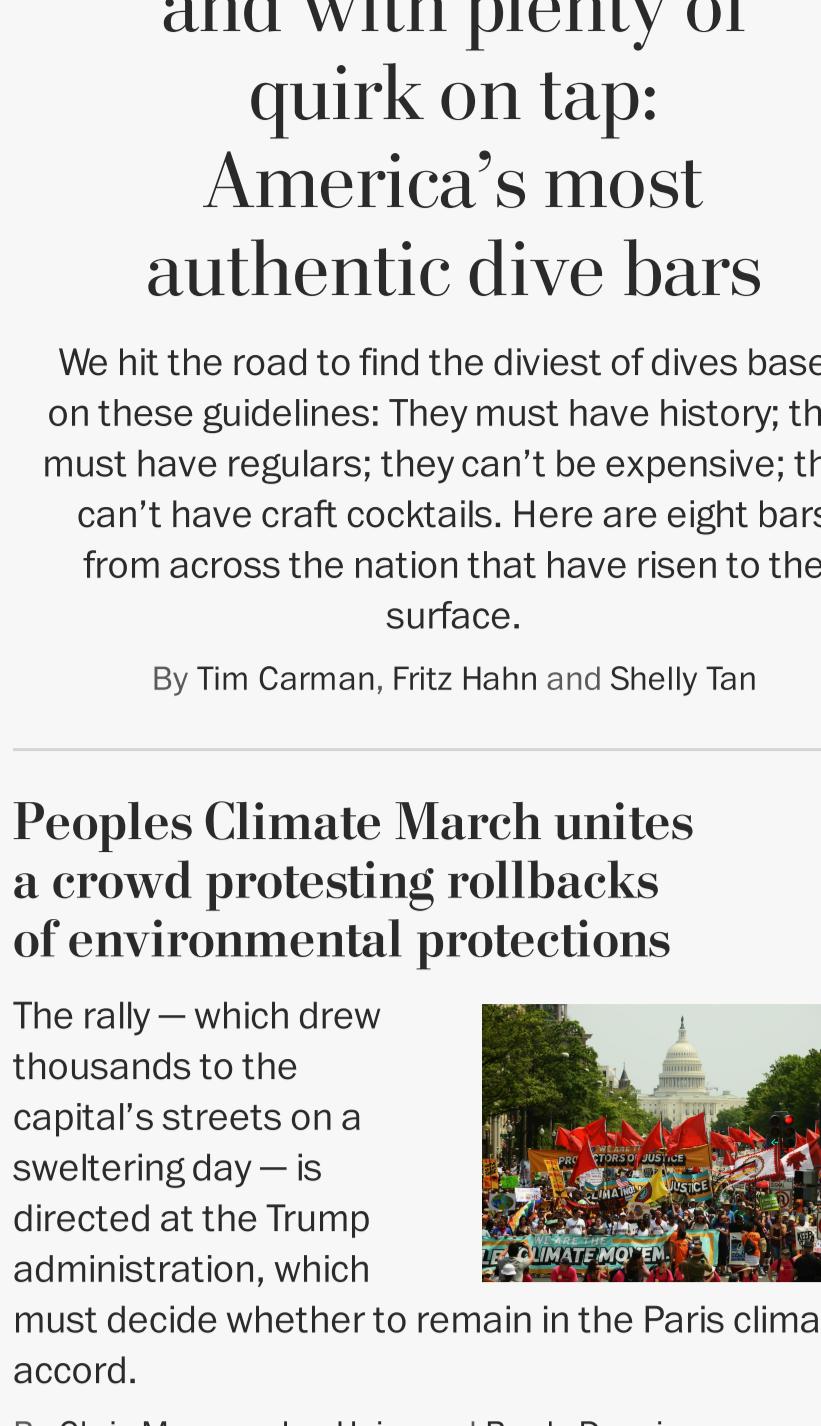

On his 100th day in office, the president had fun in "wonderful, beautiful" Harrisburg, where it felt like last year again with lusty cheers and smiling faces for him. He bashed the bad guys of the media and Hollywood and the swamp he'd just left. And he promised jobs and greatness.

By Marc Fisher • 1 hour ago

The Take AnalysisRepublicans are tethered to Trump politically and need to act accordingly

Midterm losses in the House are the norm for the party in power, and the president isn't helping the GOP's cause.

By Dan Balow

• Analysis: Trump is now pointing toward consolidating his own power

Bartender and manager Cesar Salinas pours a beer at the Subway Inn in New York. (Ricky Carioti/The Washington Post)

Grungy, interesting and with plenty of quirk on tap: America's most authentic dive bars

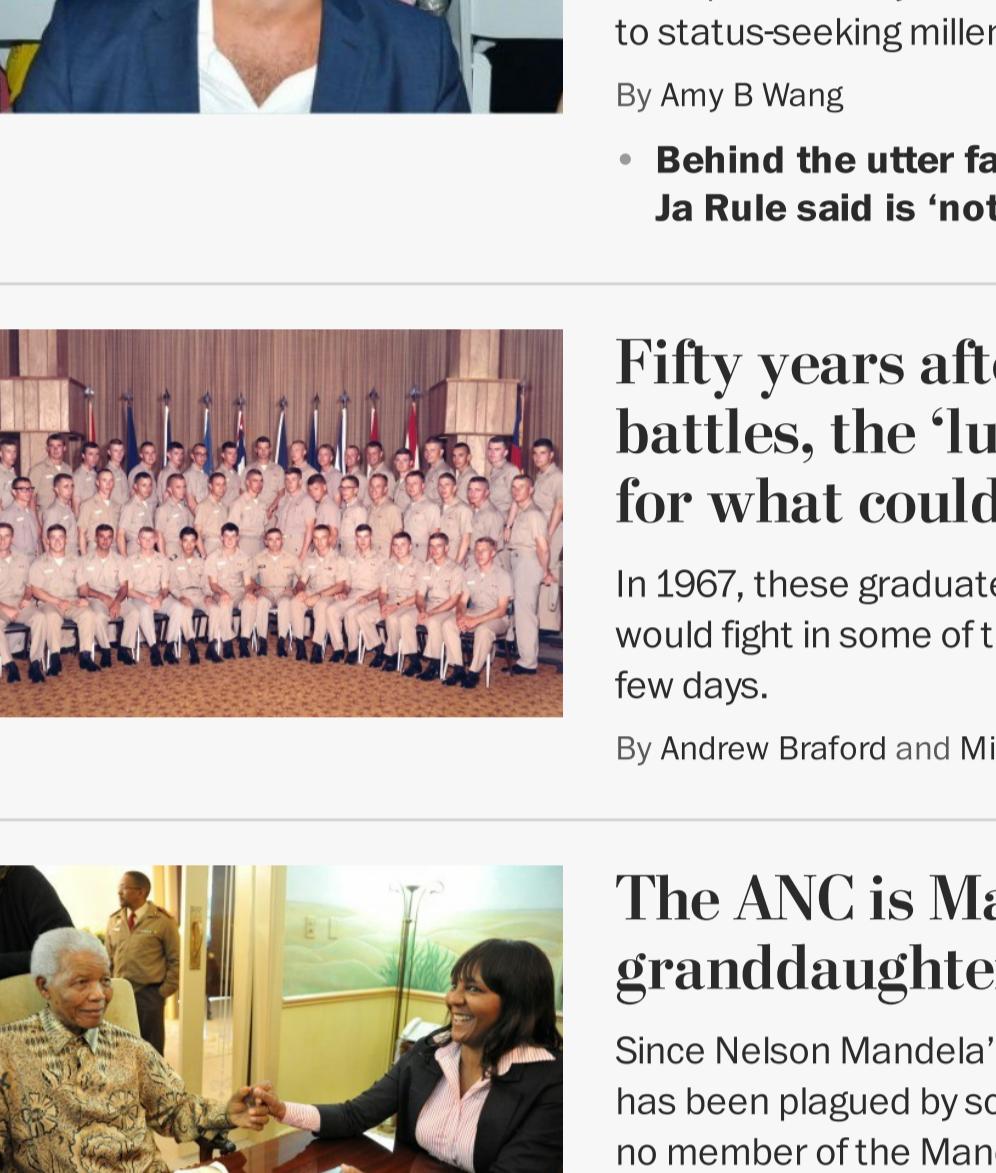

We hit the road to find the divetest of dives based on these guidelines: They must have history; they must have regulars; they can't be expensive; they can't have craft cocktails. Here are eight bars from across the nation that have risen to the surface.

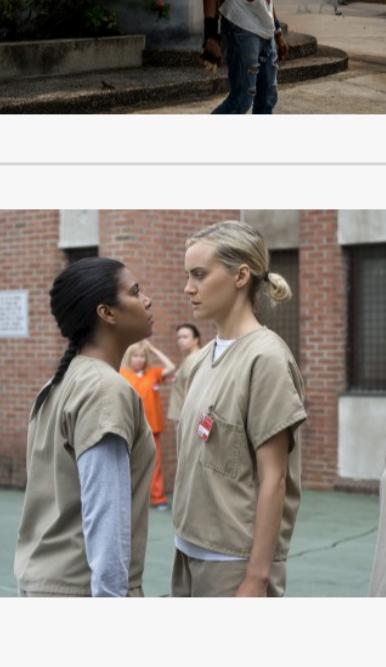

By Tim Carman, Fritz Hahn and Shelly Tan

Peoples Climate March unites a crowd protesting rollbacks of environmental protections

The rally — which drew thousands to the capital's streets on a sweltering day — is directed at the Trump administration, which must decide whether to remain in the Paris climate accord.

By Chris Mooney, Joe Heim and Brady Dennis

White House Correspondents' Association dinnerSamantha Bee got Will Ferrell to roast Donald Trump — in character as George W. Bush

 Her "Not the White House Correspondents' Dinner" offered some sharp-edged Washington counterprogramming.

By Elahe Izadi

With Trump absent, it's a different sort of event

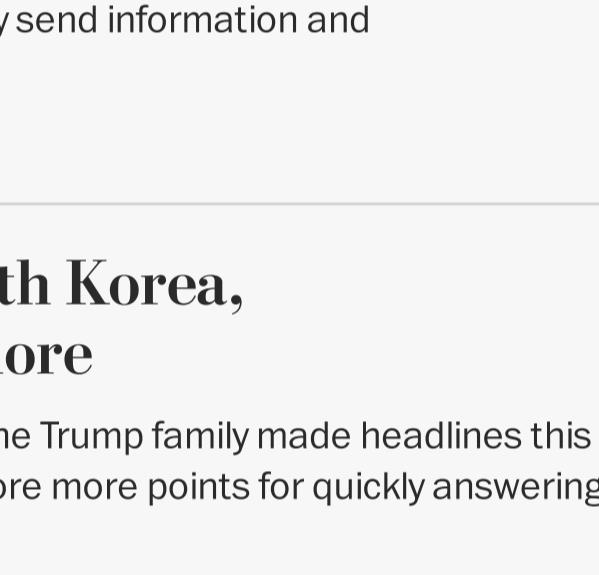

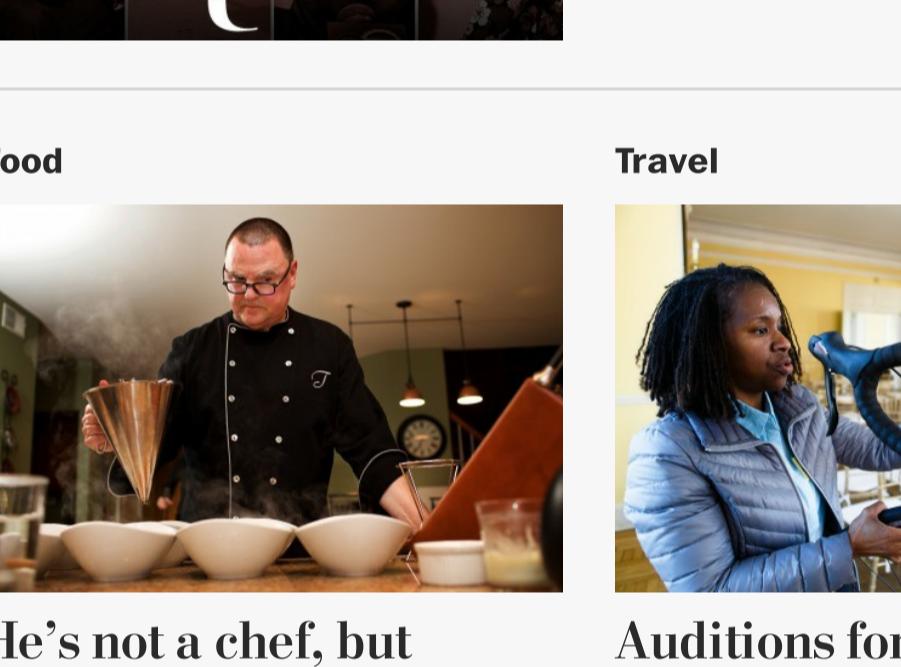

Without anyone from the administration in attendance, the normally celebrity-filled event is more subdued — and it has competition from Samantha Bee's event.

By Abby Ohlheiser and Emily Yahr • 23 minutes ago

Reliable SourceThis year's White House correspondents' dinner weekend is putting the 'nerd' back in 'nerd prom'

There are still plenty of parties, but instead of gift bags and humble brags, now you get a lecture.

By Helena Andrews-Dyer

OpinionsFirst 100 Days

In my first 100 days, I kept my promise to Americans

By Donald J. Trump

Sheryl Sandberg becomes a most unlikely Every Widow

By Tracy Grant

Palestinians are rewarding terrorists. The U.S. should stop enabling them.

By Thane Rosenbaum

First 100 Days

An illustrated guide to President Trump's first 100 days

By Steve Brodner

If abortions become illegal, here's how the government will prosecute women who have them

By Irin Carmon

People outside the U.S. hate Trump. Will they punish their leaders for working with him?

By Stuart A. Reid

Oregon parade becomes unexpected battlefield for political activists

Organizers of the annual Roses Parade through a quiet Portland neighborhood canceled the event days ago because of fears of violence, but the threatened clash between the left-wing and right-wing groups went on.

By Leah Sottile and Sandhya Somashankar

Women at NRA convention cheer Trump: 'Just knowing he's here makes me feel good'

The president's visit to the gun owners' convention Friday electrified the mostly white male crowd. Many women, distinctly outnumbered, said they have spent the past 100 days developing a profound sense of loyalty to Trump.

By Elise Viebeck

The disastrous Fyre Festival was founded by a man with a history of overpromising 'elite' access

Entrepreneur Billy McFarland offered familiar-sounding benefits in 2013 to status-seeking millennials.

By Amy B Wang

• Behind the utter failure that organizer Ja Rule said is 'not my fault'*Fifty years after Vietnam's bloodiest battles, the 'lucky ones' are gathering for what could be a final reunion

In 1967, these graduates from Quantico were shipped to Vietnam. They would fight in some of the bloodiest battles of the war. Some lasted only a few days.

By Andrew Braford and Michael E. Ruane

The ANC is Mandela's legacy. His granddaughter has renounced it.

Since Nelson Mandela's death in 2013, the African National Congress has been plagued by scandals, internal divisions and electoral losses. But no member of the Mandela family had disowned South Africa's ruling party. Until now.

By Kevin Sieff

As the poor join protests, Venezuela may be hitting a turning point

The country's poor were loyal supporters of the late Hugo Chavez, but their growing loss of faith in his successor could be a key factor in determining whether President Nicolás Maduro can stay in office.

By Mariana Zuluaga and Nick Miroff

Hacker claims to have released new episodes of 'Orange is the New Black' after failing to receive ransom

Calling himself "The Dark Overlord," the hacker claims he released several episodes via an illegal streaming service after Netflix declined his request for a "modest" amount of money.

By Ellen McCarthy

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more >News quiz: North Korea, 100 days and more

At least one member of the Trump family made headlines this week. Were you paying attention? Score more points for quickly answering correctly.

By Tiffany Harness

Oregon parade becomes unexpected battlefield for political activists

Organizers of the annual Roses Parade through a quiet Portland neighborhood canceled the event days ago because of fears of violence, but the threatened clash between the left-wing and right-wing groups went on.

By Leah Sottile and Sandhya Somashankar

Women at NRA convention cheer Trump: 'Just knowing he's here makes me feel good'

The president's visit to the gun owners' convention Friday electrified the mostly white male crowd. Many women, distinctly outnumbered, said they have spent the past 100 days developing a profound sense of loyalty to Trump.

By Elise Viebeck

The disastrous Fyre Festival was founded by a man with a history of overpromising 'elite' access

Entrepreneur Billy McFarland offered familiar-sounding benefits in 2013 to status-seeking millennials.

By Amy B Wang

• Behind the utter failure that organizer Ja Rule said is 'not my fault'*Fifty years after Vietnam's bloodiest battles, the 'lucky ones' are gathering for what could be a final reunion

In 1967, these graduates from Quantico were shipped to Vietnam. They would fight in some of the bloodiest battles of the war. Some lasted only a few days.

By Andrew Braford and Michael E. Ruane

The ANC is Mandela's legacy. His granddaughter has renounced it.

Since Nelson Mandela's death in 2013, the African National Congress has been plagued by scandals, internal divisions and electoral losses. But no member of the Mandela family had disowned South Africa's ruling party. Until now.

By Kevin Sieff

As the poor join protests, Venezuela may be hitting a turning point

The country's poor were loyal supporters of the late Hugo Chavez, but their growing loss of faith in his successor could be a key factor in determining whether President Nicolás Maduro can stay in office.

By Mariana Zuluaga and Nick Miroff

Hacker claims to have released new episodes of 'Orange is the New Black' after failing to receive ransom

Calling himself "The Dark Overlord," the hacker claims he released several episodes via an illegal streaming service after Netflix declined his request for a "modest" amount of money.

By Ellen McCarthy

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more >News quiz: North Korea, 100 days and more

At least one member of the Trump family made headlines this week. Were you paying attention? Score more points for quickly answering correctly.

By Tiffany Harness

Oregon parade becomes unexpected battlefield for political activists

Organizers of the annual Roses Parade through a quiet Portland neighborhood canceled the event days ago because of fears of violence, but the threatened clash between the left-wing and right-wing groups went on.

By Leah Sottile and Sandhya Somashankar

Women at NRA convention cheer Trump: 'Just knowing he's here makes me feel good'

The president's visit to the gun owners' convention Friday electrified the mostly white male crowd. Many women, distinctly outnumbered, said they have spent the past 100 days developing a profound sense of loyalty to Trump.

By Elise Viebeck

The disastrous Fyre Festival was founded by a man with a history of overpromising 'elite' access

Entrepreneur Billy McFarland offered familiar-sounding benefits in 2013 to status-seeking millennials.