

Get 24/7 access to award-winning
journalism

April 1, 2017

In the News Carbon monoxide leak Pregnant giraffe iPhone injury Tina Fey Atlanta highway fire April Fools' Colombia Navy SEAL 'Hi, stranger'

The Washington Post

Democracy Dies in Darkness

Subscribe to
The Washington Post

Edition: U.S. & World | Regional

Democrats on Capitol Hill have a new and surprising weapon: Power

It turns out that Republicans need the minority party to help them avoid a government shutdown at the end of April. And Democrats have decided, for now at least, that they will use their leverage to reassert themselves and ensure the continued funding of their top priorities — by going to the negotiating table.

By Kelsey Snell • 1 hour ago

@PKCapitol Analysis

Trump's Washington means civil war – for both parties

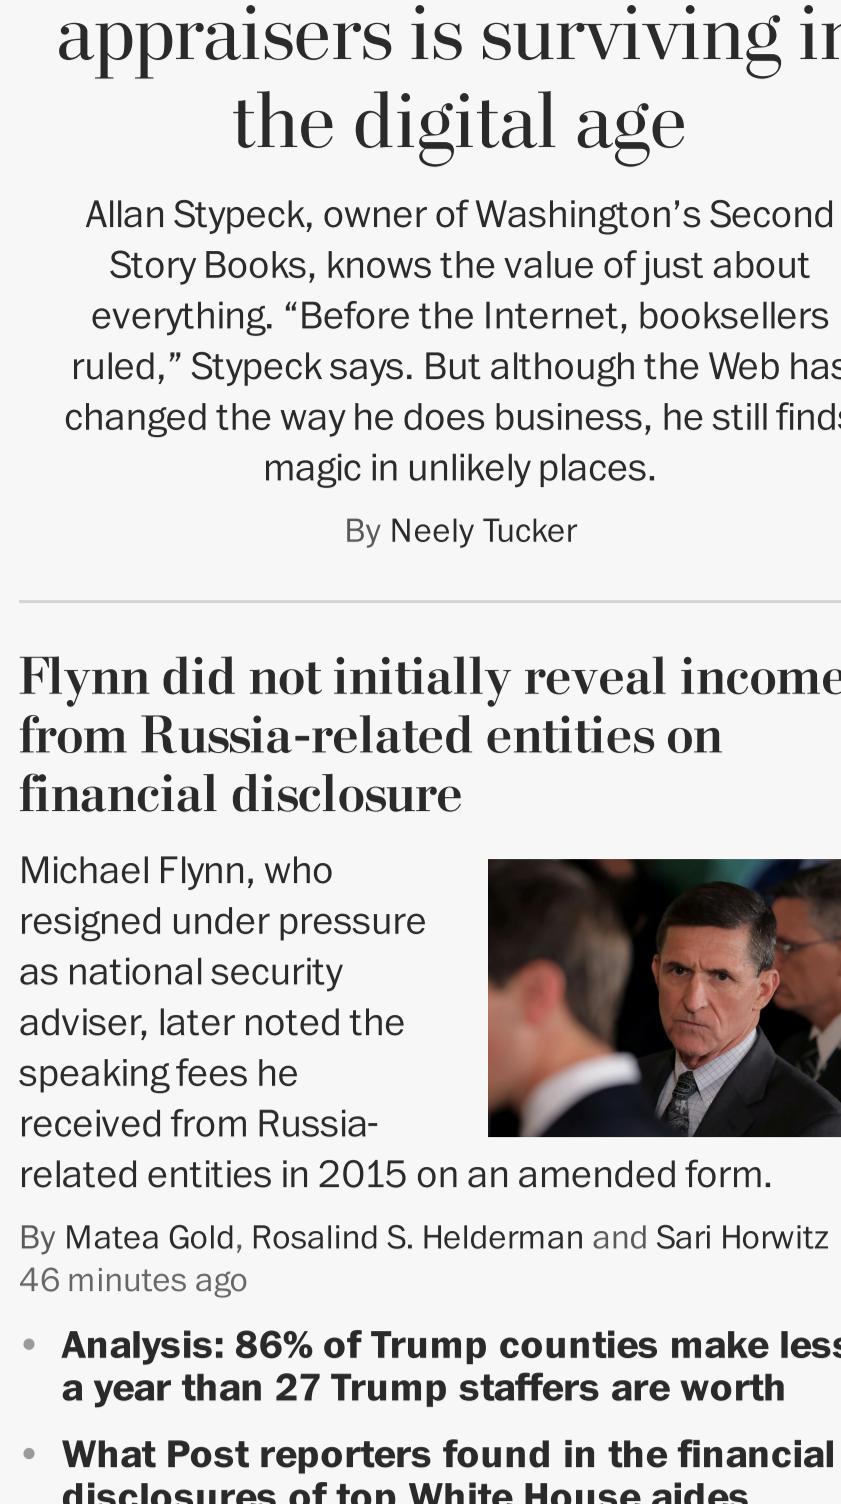

Republicans and Democrats have turned on their own, punishing party members who don't conform to the prevailing orthodoxy on the issues. Neil Gorsuch's nomination to the Supreme Court appears to be the latest victim of this infighting.

By Paul Kane • 1 hour ago

Trump's budget chief is on a collision course with former House colleagues

When the government last shut down in 2013, Mick Mulvaney was among the "Shutdown Caucus" hard-liners willing to let the lights go out. Now the director of the Office of Management and Budget is responsible for coaxing intransigent Republicans to pass a new spending bill by April 28 to avert another shutdown.

By Philip Rucker and Damian Paletta

(André Chung for The Washington Post)

How one of America's foremost rare-book appraisers is surviving in the digital age

Allan Stypeck, owner of Washington's Second Story Books, knows the value of just about everything. "Before the Internet, booksellers ruled," Stypeck says. But although the Web has changed the way he does business, he still finds magic in unlikely places.

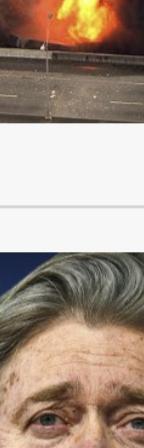

By Neely Tucker

Flynn did not initially reveal income from Russia-related entities on financial disclosure

Michael Flynn, who resigned under pressure as national security adviser, later noted the speaking fees he received from Russia-related entities in 2015 on an amended form.

By Matea Gold, Rosalind S. Helderman and Sari Horwitz • 46 minutes ago

- Analysis: 86% of Trump counties make less in a year than 27 Trump staffers are worth
- What Post reporters found in the financial disclosures of top White House aides

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more »

Opinions

The most suspicious part of Trump's presidency

Editorial Board

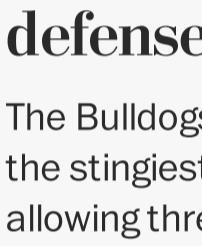

This Watergate lawmaker set a standard for slavish loyalty. Then came Nunes.

By Colbert I. King

Britain's 'Legs-it' scandal was sexist – but they're still way ahead of us

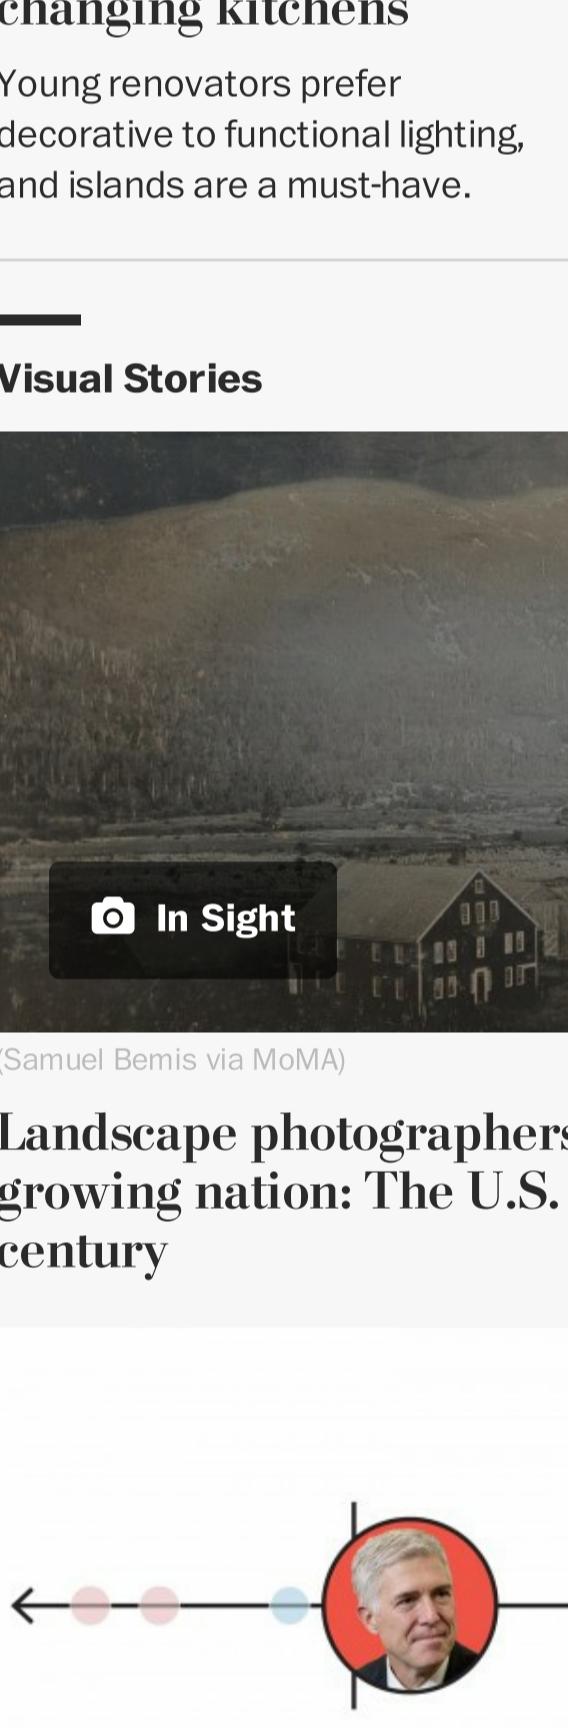

By Ruth Marcus

Robert Redford: 45 years after Watergate, the truth is again in danger

By Robert Redford

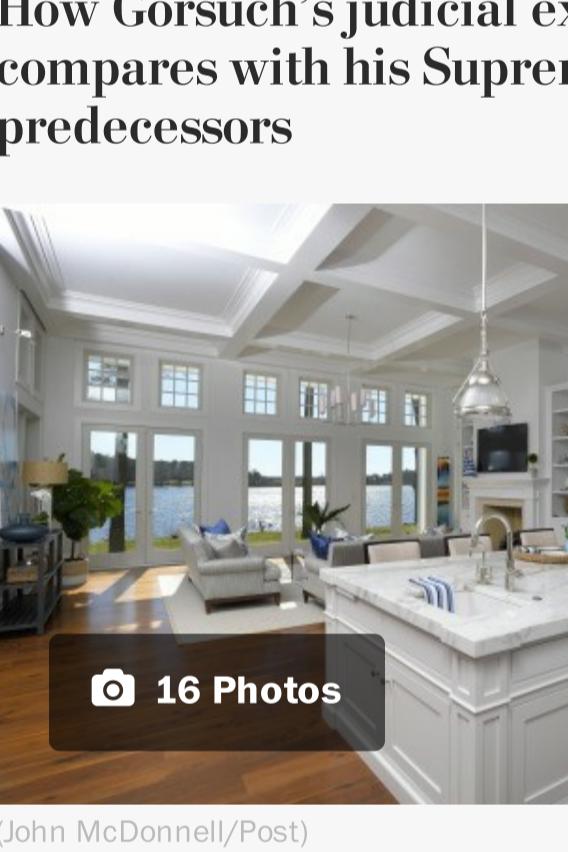

More Top Stories

At least 154 killed when swollen rivers overflow, topple homes in Colombia

An avalanche of water from three flooded rivers swept through a small city in Colombia, killing unsuspecting residents in their sleep, authorities said.

By Associated Press • 1 hour ago

Tina Fey tells college-educated white women who voted for Trump: 'You can't look away'

"A lot of this election was turned by white, college-educated women who now would like to forget about this election and go back to watching HGTV," the actress and comedian said at an ACLU fundraiser. "It's going to affect you eventually."

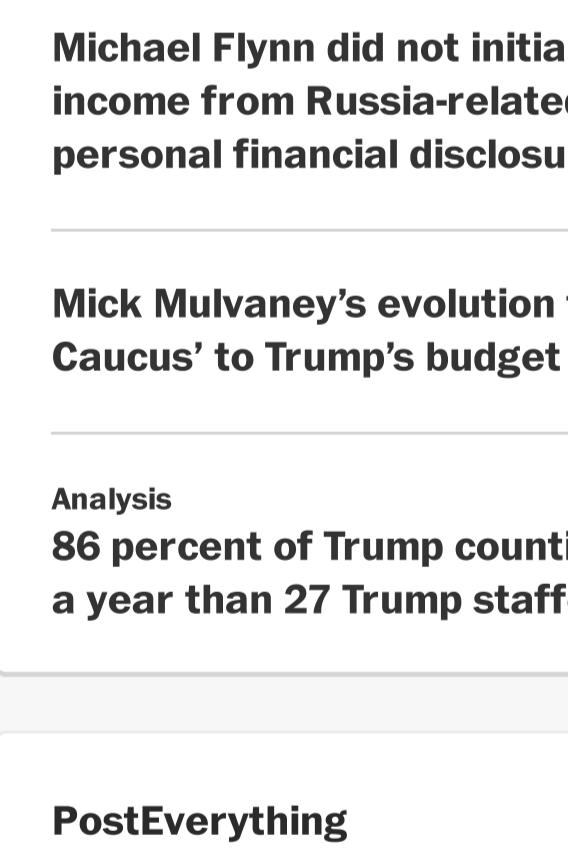

By Kristine Phillips • 1 hour ago

O'Reilly, Fox paid about $13 million since 2002 to settle harassment claims

The payments by Fox News star Bill O'Reilly and the network went to five women who accused the host of sexual harassment and other inappropriate behavior, according to a published report.

By Paul Farhi • 2 hours ago

Six tips to avoid getting kicked off a plane

Yes, you can wear your leggings on the flight (as long you're not using an employee pass on United), but there are a number of other personal choices that could get you booted from the plane.

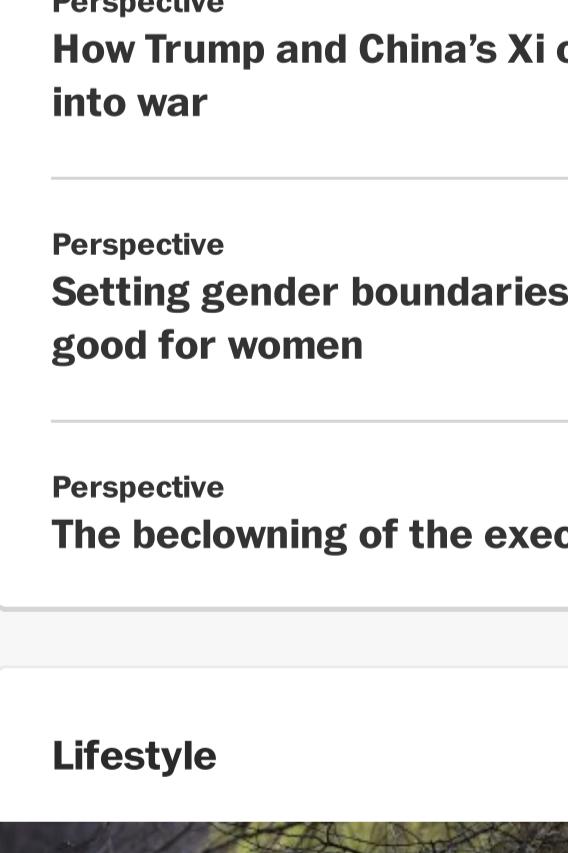

By Kate Silver

3 charged in 'maliciously set' Atlanta highway fire may have been smoking crack

Police did not release details about what the three were doing before the fire or a possible motive, and said more charges could be pending. The collapsed road will take months to repair, authorities said, making commutes a nightmare in the metro Atlanta area.

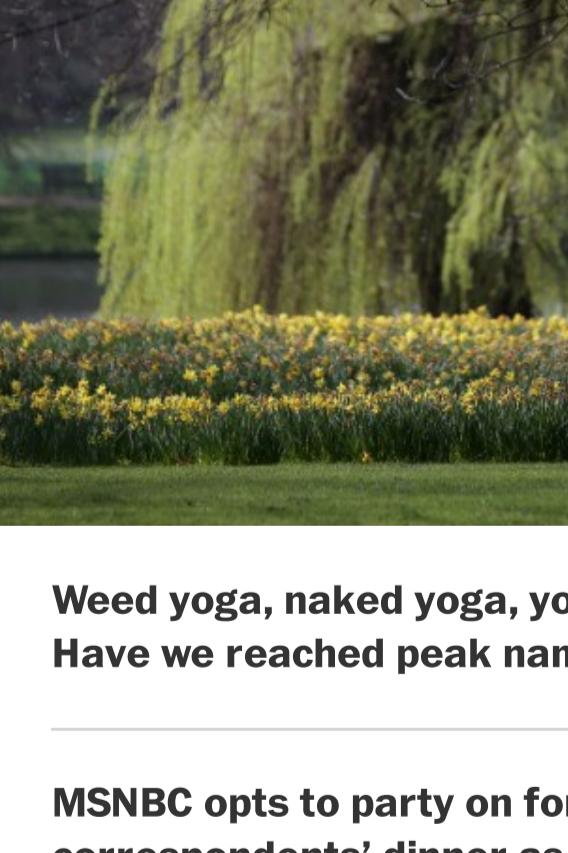

By Cleve R. Wootton Jr. • 1 hour ago

How Stephen Bannon, Trump's architect of anti-globalist policies, got rich as a global capitalist

As an investment banker in the 1980s and 1990s, Bannon represented a Saudi prince, received financing from Japanese and French banks, and lived in what looks like an alternative reality from the fiery populist of today who recently declared that "globalists gutted the American working class and created a middle class in Asia."

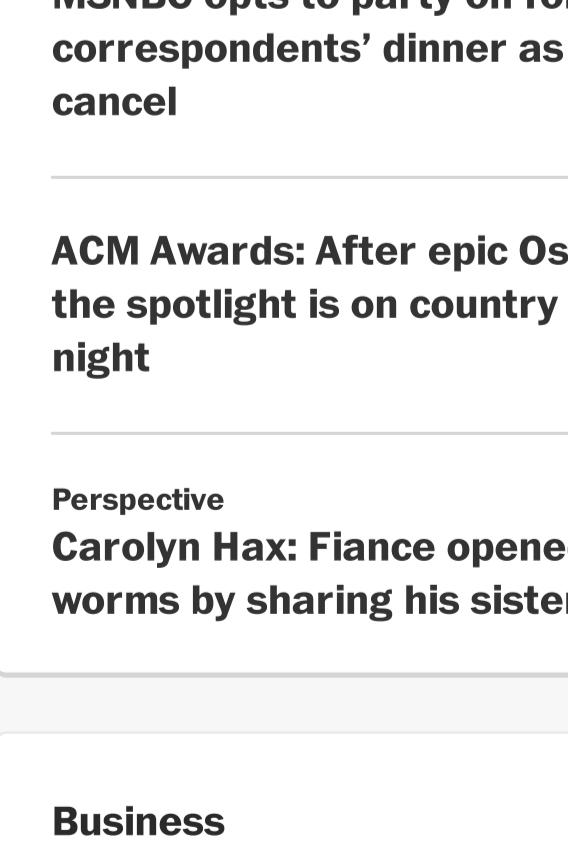

By Michael Kranish and Renée Merle

A man fell asleep with his phone charging in bed. It nearly electrocuted him.

"I wouldn't wish what happened to me on my worst enemy," said Wiley Day of Huntsville, Ala., after he suffered burns to his hands and neck when a necklace he was wearing touched the exposed prongs of the charger, which had come loose during the night.

By Amy B Wang

Denounced as a dictatorship, Venezuela reverses court ruling that incapacitated legislature

On the instructions of President Nicolás Maduro, Venezuela's top court on Saturday walked back its attempt to incapacitate the country's opposition-controlled parliament, following widespread condemnation across the Americas.

By Mariana Zuluaga and Nick Miroff • 2 hours ago

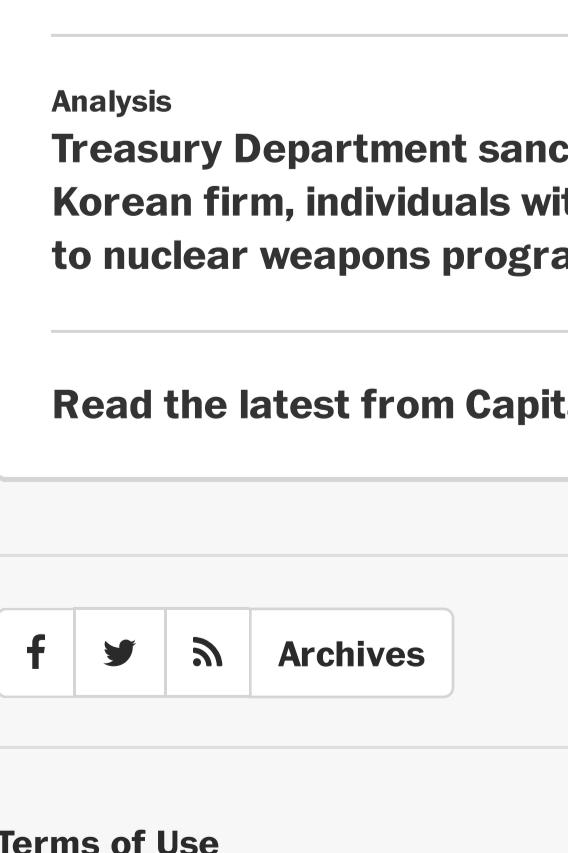

NCAA Tournament

Final Four preview: Gonzaga-S. Carolina offers a matchup of the defenses

The Bulldogs and the Gamecocks have been two of the stinkiest teams in the country when it comes to allowing three-pointers.

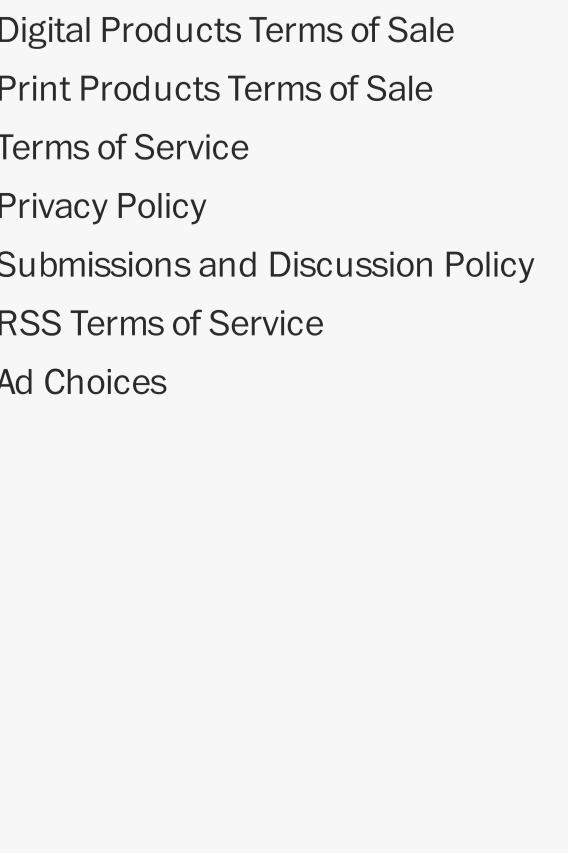

By Washington Post Staff

- Who will decide the UNC-Oregon matchup? Look to the giants.

How millennials are changing kitchens

Young renovators prefer decorative to functional lighting, and islands are a must-have.

Every day is a good day for pie

Three recipes that solve the problem of store-bought desserts with "Passover taste."

Food

Home & Garden

Food

Date Lab

No game-playing necessary

Her funny stories had him in stitches, and his sarcastic humor made her laugh.

Visual Stories

In Sight

Landscape photographers capture a growing nation: The U.S. in the 19th century

(Samuel Bemis via MoMA)

How Trump is rolling back Obama's legacy

The Bulldogs and the Gamecocks have been two of the stinkiest teams in the country when it comes to allowing three-pointers.

By Washington Post Staff

- Who will decide the UNC-Oregon matchup? Look to the giants.

Perspective

I worked for Mike Pence. Being a woman never held me back.

Perspective

How Trump and China's Xi could stumble into war

Perspective

Setting gender boundaries at work can be good for women

Perspective

The bumbling of the executive branch

Lifestyle

Weed yoga, naked yoga, yoga with goats: Have we reached peak namaste?

MSNBC opts to party on for White House correspondents' dinner as other outlets cancel

ACM Awards: After epic Oscars mix-up, the spotlight is on country music's big night

Perspective

Carolyn Hax: Fiance opened a can of worms by sharing his sister's comments

Business

Trump just kicked off NAFTA renegotiation. Here's what history tells us about how that'll go.

New EPA documents reveal even deeper proposed cuts to staff and programs

Analysis

Treasury Department sanctions North Korean firm, individuals with alleged ties to nuclear weapons program

Read the latest from Capital Business

Politics

Ivanka Trump complained when the media called her 'adviser.' Now she's officially an adviser.

Analysis

Michael Flynn did not initially reveal income from Russia-related entities on his personal financial disclosure

Mick Mulvaney's evolution from 'Shutdown Caucus' to Trump's budget salesman

Analysis

86 percent of Trump counties make less in a year than 27 Trump staffers are worth

Analysis

Trump's judicial experience compares with his Supreme Court predecessors

Analysis

Gorsuch's nomination to the Supreme Court appears to be the latest victim of this infighting.

Analysis

Trump's budget chief is on a collision course with former House colleagues

Analysis

When the government last shut down in 2013, Mick Mulvaney was among the "Shutdown Caucus"

Analysis

Hard-liners willing to let the lights go out. Now the director of the Office of Management and Budget is responsible for coaxing intransigent Republicans to pass a new spending bill by April 28 to avert another shutdown.

Analysis

Trump's budget chief is on a collision course with former House colleagues

Analysis

When the government last shut down in 2013, Mick Mulvaney was among the "Shutdown Caucus"

Analysis