Democracy Dies in Darkness

Rice denies leaking names of Trump officials from intelligence reports

Some Republican lawmakers want former Obama national security adviser Susan E. Rice to testify about claims that she sought to uncover the identities of President Trump campaign or transition officials concealed in intercepts. The allegations – which Rice called “completely false” – quickly overtook the steady drumbeat of revelations about connections to Moscow that have dogged Trump for months.

Russia blames Syrian rebels for devastating chemical attack in northern town

The attack that killed at least 72 people, according to human rights observers, has been widely attributed to the Syrian government. It drew international censure as images circulated of limp children and elderly men foaming at the mouth.

Advertisers flee Bill O'Reilly's Fox News show amid sexual-harassment claims

At least 11 companies, including leading car, financial and pharmaceutical advertisers, have suspended or removed ads from “The O'Reilly Factor” after news that the host has been the subject of a succession of sexual-harassment allegations over the past 15 years. The retreat represented the most significant threat to O'Reilly seen during his long, successful and occasionally controversy-riven career at Fox.
